ALMA MATER

By Mary W. Plummer

Towering far above her neighbors, Shop and mart and hall, Stands the home of student-labors, Noblest of them all!

At each meeting, give her greeting, Raise the proud salute! Hail to thee our Alma Mater, Hail, Pratt Institute!

In our hearts her precepts linger, Her example gleams, Showing with unerring finger Guerdon of our dreams.

At our meeting, for our greeting, Bring her noble fruit, Hail to thee, our Alma Mater, Hail, Pratt Institute!

Round the world the chain extending Each to other binds, All her honored name defending, Hearts and hands and minds.

At our meeting, give her greeting, Raise the proud salute! Hail to thee, our Alma Mater, Hail, Pratt Institute!

FIRST FOUNDER'S DAY ADDRESS OCTOBER 2, 1888

BY CHARLES PRATT

You who have been with us during a part or all of this first year, have seen that the general plan is to conduct the work in departments, each doing some specific line of work. At the beginning of the year we had only the Art Department, but as the demand for other work grew other departments were added. * * The Library belongs not only to the Institute but to the public, and I hope its influence will extend far and wide and that every book may be a messenger for good.

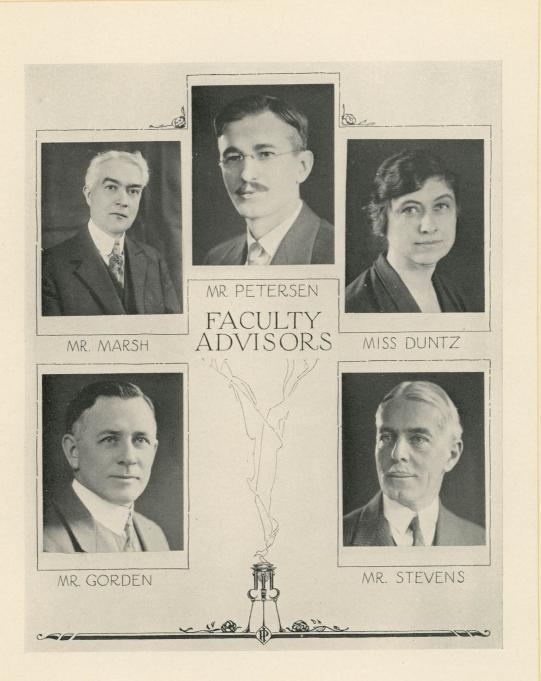

In the departments the enrollment has grown from a beginning of twelve to a total, in day and evening classes, of 631. It is my earnest desire that this number may grow until we tell it by thousands and that each department shall send out strong, helpful, sincere men and women prepared to do efficient work and unwilling to do less than their best. I wish I could tell you of the belief I have in the power of the life and earnest purpose of a young man or a young woman—the influence they may have for good in this world. It is right here from you, young men and young women, that I look for the success of the Institute. I believe in the spirit of fellowship, in that unity of thought and action which tends to make others better. Don't go through the world finding fault. We all have our weaknesses, but we also have our strong points. Try to find the strong points in those around you and help make the world better and brighter for your own life. The pleasure in life comes from helping others. That is the reason I built this Institute. The busy people are the happy people. Keep busy. Try to concentrate your thought and your effort. Many people will be looking to us because of the novel features of our Institute. I have come to the conclusion that people are estimated pretty justly. It is not necessary to go through the streets blowing a big horn for ourselves. Our Institute will be judged by the men and women whom it turns out. Let the work done here be earnest and good. Despise sham and deception. Honest effort will make work a pleasure and overcome all difficulties. Work for the genuine and the true will sweeten and give courage to life. If you observe these maxims, the Institute will be an honor to our city, to our state, and to our country.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Grateful acknowledgment is due those whose untiring efforts made possible the satisfactory completion of this book.

To the faculty advisors for their aid and advice during the year. To the secretaries of the four schools, who unselfishly gave of their time and attention to this volume. To the general faculty, the representatives, and every one connected with the production of Prattonia.

YOUR FRIEND

It is not he who says, "I am your friend!"
When degradation draws you in its mire;
He's bro't at last to see you there in dire
Need of something, then helps you to that end.
It is not he who, when your days are lonely,
Will pat your back and say, "Who's this that grieves?"
"Come, shake tho'ts! Let's smile!" and then he leaves;
It serves, of course, but for a brief time only.
I think your friend is he who finds your love,
Who saves you from that vale where sorrow lives,
And who his share unknowing, freely gives,
Content perchance to lead your way above
Despondency's chilling depths; to renew
With certitude your faith in joyous hope;
To stay your yielding feet on treacherous slope;
I think he truly is your friend, don't you?

Prattonia, 1927

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING, 1927

September 23, 1925, or to be more exact, during those rheumatic times when the Charleston was the rage, what is now the class of '27 gathered together for the first time, for the mutual protection of its members, and because it was so ordered

Taking a casual glance of our first year at Pratt, we find a class with the reputation of being the peppiest first year gang seen, or heard from, in years. We even had to be divided into three groups to keep peace in the class.

Of course, since the schedule called for them we had to be bothered with such things as slide rules, experiments and mathematics, but as we are alive and kicking to this day, no appreciable harm was done.

Being gluttons for punishment, our appetites were duly and amply appeased. To begin with, the mathematics question began to get downright serious when such things as "prove an ellipse is elliptical" were thrown at us. Another stone on the rocky road to Dublin was Mechanical Laboratory. Here many of us would spend hours trying to adjust the planimeter on a steam trap only to find, on investigation, that steam trap planimeters have yet to be invented.

"Mechanics" was the class I enjoyed the most. This statement is said to have been uttered by a member of our class, but as said member was most likely temporarily insane at the time, no credence should be given to the statement. "Mechanics," by the way, is the origin of many momentous questions such as, "Why in the world should anyone want to stick a pin through the instantaneous center of a machine?" "Electricity," was another gear in the reversing mechanism that tended to hinder our progress.

Contrary to popular belief, life is not one long road but a series of short ones and in leaving Pratt we have come to the end of one of these. Looking back, we smile at what were then troubles and heaving a sigh for the incoming class we say to ourselves, "I only seen my duty and I done it."

D. J. P.

OFFICERS

RODNEY F. SANFORD, President ROY C. PETERSEN, Vice-President

RAYMOND V. ROGERS, Secretary CHESTER M. BROTHERTON, Treasurer

HAROLD S. ALLEN

H. S.

Peru, N. Y.

A quiet, happy, ever good natured chap. Never lacks friends among the fellows or fair sex. Works his razor hard to keep that school boy complexion.

ROLAND B. ANDREWS

Andy

Box 66, Bainsbridge, N. Y.

Liked by all, and a member of the near the ground squad. Found every noon taking cash at Pratt Institute Lunch. "Look out, girls, he's in town."

RONALD J. ASHELFORD

Ash

35 Holbrook Street, Ansonia, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Duck Pins, 1926-1927.

"Ash" played soccer well. A mean fellow for the women. Ask "Ash" where the telephone office is located.

CONRADE H. BAER

Connie

8545 Ninety-sixth Street, Woodhaven, L. I.

"Connie" is a strong supporter of the "Open Air Line." A happy-go-lucky fellow, one of the kind we all like to meet.

RAY W. BERKHEISER

Berky

1756 West End Avenue, Pottsville, Pa.

Manager Student Lunch, 1927.

When not passing out tickets at the Pratt Institute Lunch he can be found escorting a fair one on Willoughby Avenue.

BERNARD C. BERRY

B. C.

124 Fifty-second Street, North Birmingham, Ala.

President Student Branch A. S. M. E.; Chairman Metropolitan District Student Branch A. S. M. E., 1927; Class Soccer, 1926.

Enough cannot be said about Berry. Liked by all, and a keen student. Success is yours, we wish you the best of everything. A veteran of the Great War.

WILLIAM E. BILLINGSLEY

Bill

257 Eighteenth Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.

A conscientious fellow. Always plugging, and a member we can't get along without. Success to you, brother "Bill."

ERNEST J. BOSK

Bosky

20 Off Branch Street, Gardner, Mass.

New England Club, 1926-1927.

Good things come in small packages. Another member of the near the ground squad. "Frankie's" pal. Not afraid of the women. Favorite saying: "Is it half past nine yet, Ash? Let's go down to the telephone office."

FRANK D. BOURGARD

Frankie

Astoria, L. I.

"Frankie" is a recent convert from the wilds of Connecticut. Moved to New York to get a closer view of life in Ridgewood, and to reform the Big City. We wish you success.

WILLIAM R. BOWEN

Bill

97 Bedford Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Varsity Manager Baseball, 1927; Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1926; Secretary and Associate Editor, Prattonia Board.

"Bill" will never be forgotten because of his quiet, likeable, ways. A big booster for Pratt spirit, and a member of the "Three Club," on Clinton Avenue.

WILLIAM F. BOYLE

Bill

321 Livingstone Street, Bound Brook, N. J.

Seriously, you will never meet a more likeable chap. The class would like to know where he was the night of the Hall-Mills Revue. Secret: He had a hot-dog stand in De Russey's Lane. Best o' luck, Bill.

REGINALD L. BRANDT

Reggie

108 Jayne Street, Patchogue, L. I.

Class Swimming, 1926.

One of the live class members, and a mean shot with a gun. His favorite sport is duck hunting, and he gets them on the wing. Burglars too. Ask Mr. Harper, he knows.

CHESTER M. BROTHERTON

Chet

64 Prospect Terrace, Cortland, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1926-1927.

"Chet" the big, tall, fellow, talks in his sleep, wears a night shirt, and won his varsity letter in necking on St. James Place. Favorite saying, "Have you a date tonight?" Greatest ambition to wrap one arm around three girls at the same time. A member of the "Three Club," Clinton Avenue.

ROBERT L. BURLEY

436 Sixtieth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Class Swimming, 1926; Class Boxing, 1927.

"Bob" came to us from the seas and knows his stuff. Optimistic at all times. Who can forget that smile and cheerful disposition? Another part of the class back bone. Also a member of the R. O. T. C.

IOSEPH A. BUTERA

Joe

128 Washington Street, Morristown, N. J.

Class Soccer Team, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Basketball, 1926.

Interested in athletics, but other interests seemed to keep him out of sight. A good mixer and liked by all.

NUNCIO T. CASTROVINCI

Casty

33 Van Nostrand Avenue, Jersey City, N. J.

Captain Varsity Baseball, 1927; Varsity Baseball, 1926; Varsity Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Bowling, 1926-1927.

"Casty" was one of those athletes that made the class stand out. A whiz on the court and a wonder as short stop. Must have been born with a basketball in one hand and a baseball in the other. Success to you, "Casty."

Mat

419 Capitol Avenue, Bridgeport, Conn.

Class Chess, 1926-1927.

"Mat" is quiet, an unassuming chap, and a hard worker. One of the boy A troupe from the Nutmeg State. We wish we knew him better.

Tony

34 Bennington Avenue, Freeport, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Bowling, 1926-1927.

A speed merchant on the court, and every time he gets the ball the basket sings, "Home, Sweet Home." Also knows his stuff on the alleys. His ready smile will never be forgotten.

JAMES L. CLARK

Jim

8425 169th Street, Jamaica, N. Y.

A congenial chap. Has a welcome for every one. Hard to write about, says little but thinks a great deal. Always seems anxious to get home. Wonder who she is?

CHARLES A. CORCORAN

Chick

267 South Clairmont Avenue, Springfield, Ohio

Class Soccer, 1926; Class Basketball, 1926-1927.

"Chick" is one of the long boys and a constant companion of Chuisano's. His greatest endeavor, to know how long he could hold the ball above his head with the other team on his back. He is busy editing a book, "Design Made Easy." All the luck in the world to you, "Chick."

CHESTER DEPEW

Chet

Moson, Pa.

Assistant Varsity Cheer Leader, 1926; Class Track, 1926-1927; Manager Class Track, 1927.

"Chet" was always interested in athletics, but more so in women. When not in school he could be found unconsciously walking toward the art school.

THEODORE H. DOENECKE

Ted

216 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Ted" is a quiet type of fellow who came to school to get some information. Very popular with all the fellows, and has a smile for you when everything seems shot. We wish you luck, "Ted."

PAUL F. DORN

Paul

500 Prospect Avenue, Mt Vernon, N. Y.

Will always be remembered by section II, through the mathematics work-book episode with Cap. I. Does N. G. mean it's all wrong, Mr. Marsh? A real plugger and a believer in Pratt spirit. Plays pool for a diversion, ask Harold.

WALLACE F. DUNN

Wally

5 Garfield Street, Glens Falls, N. Y.

Varsity Baseball, 1926-1927; Varsity Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Bowling, 1926-1927.

Another ace on the field and court, making the class of 1927 stand out. His looping shots will never be forgotten, and how he can bat. Has a weakness for the fair sex, and prefers dietitians. Hope she's a good cook. Our best wishes go with you, "Wally."

JOSEPH V. FARINELLA

Farry

76 Clifton Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

One of the Renker troupe that gave the Knickerbocker Grill its name. Always shines especially in mixed company. Favorite expression, "If women interfere with your work, quit work."

Pratfonia, 1927

STEPHEN FARKAS

Steve

Ronkonkoma, L. I., N. Y.

One of the dark horses of the class. The only thing we have against "Steve" is that he commutes and we can't link him up with any of the head-lines in the "Daily News."

EDWARD H. FENN

Fenn

51 South Highland Street, Hartford, Conn.

One of those men to whom all things are possible. Likes the women even if we can't catch him with them. Never passes up anything worth-while.

WILLIAM F. FISHER

Bill

R. F. D. No. 6, Schenectady, N. Y.

Representative Student Athletic Council, 1926-1927.

"Bill" was one time a state trooper, in fact he prefers trooping to calculus but gets there just the same. He recommends Major Cement for mending lamp globes. A partner of little Pete.

CHARLES F. GRAVJIS

Chuck

46 Manor Street, Stamford, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927.

A good soccer player and a better natured chap we have never met. You have our best wishes, "Chuck."

FRED C. GRIFFITHS

Griff

First Street, East Islip, L. I.

Varsity Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927.

"Griff" certainly threw a wicked ball as a pitcher. A member of the long squad, and the answer to "Why women prefer blondes." If your success measures with your athletics you should worry.

D. MYRON HAWK

Hawk

111/2 South Front Street, Milton, Pa.

The class will never forget that wrought iron was first made in Danville, Pa. A serious minded chap. Never takes anything for granted. Favorite expression, "Mr. Harper, I just don't get that."

E. BRONSON HEINZ

Pickles

73 Nassau Avenue, Islip, L. I.

Liked better than anyone of the 57 varieties of the same name. We heard he did lots of road work during the summer, not running, shoveling. Girls, another blonde the class is proud of. By the way he gets his work he will soon be selling the shovel.

EMIL F. HEMBERGER, JR.

Jeff

Atlantic Avenue, Sea Gate, N. Y.

Little "Jeff" joined us this year after finishing electricity. Interested in aviation, and a member of the "Al & Jeff" radio corp. We have enjoyed your friendship and wish you success.

ALFRED F. HEROLD

Al

101 View Street, Bristol, Conn.

Class Basketball, 1926; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Pool, 1926-1927.

Another Nutmeg, but not a wooden one. "Al" sure knocks design for a goal. Not satisfied with mere details. A live wire and will never be forgotten for his "What!! Overalls? I should say not." Known as the "Derby Kid." Ask "Al;" he owns one.

WILLIAM IBSEN

Bill

North Haven, Conn.

Secretary Student Branch A. S. M. E., 1927; Class Finance Committee, 1927.

"Bill," liked by all and known as the "Swede." The first one in the class to get the ball and chain. He needs someone to make him stay home. "Such popularity must be deserved." The class extends to you, its best wishes for your success.

RALPH JARCHO

Jarcho

1075 Linden Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Acting as the office boy at the Alumni smoker. The act went over big. Greatest mystery: Are all clocks made at Times Square? Believes "Milt" Gross wrote the first history. We enjoyed your company and give your our friendship.

JOHN J. KEANE

Hal

503 Baldwin Street, Waterbury, Conn.

President Nutmeg Club, 1926; Manager Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Pool, 1926-1927.

"Hal" showed his gameness when he caught nine innings with a finger broken by the second ball pitched. His interest in sports and activities shows no mistake was made in devoting his entire time to books. A master machinist whose personality and ability will make for him a high place in industry.

THOMAS H. KELLY

Kel

Ronkonkoma, L. I., N. Y.

Member of near the ground squad. Known as Mr. Marsh's famous Frenchman. A quiet little chap but a wonder on energy when started. Puts the pep in pepper. Never takes life seriously. No class will survive without one. Success to you, "Kel."

DICK G. LAM

Dick

200 West Forty-eighth Street, New York City

"A Cantonese" deeply interested in the great national movement in his country. To Cap I's horror his name is really Dick or Yee Tsun. A good mixer and always ready to take a turn with the gang.

WILLIAM S. LECKIE

Bill

218 Murray Street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Class Manager Bowling, 1927; Class Bowling Team, 1927; Class Manager Pool, 1926; Class Pool, 1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Soccer, 1926.

"Bill" is in everything going on, and a good mixer. Had Mr. Carr in the air, who wanted to know why he didn't swim the river when he missed the train. The class is with you in your future success.

RICHARD B. LEVINO

Dick

385 Weaver Street, Larchmont, N. Y.

Nutmeg Club.

The best comes last, therefore he joined us after finishing electricity. Only with us a year but long enough to learn of his sterling character and helpfulness. We are glad to know you, "Dick," and hope you have enjoyed our friendship.

RICHARD E. LINDEMANN

Lindy

52 Zone Street, Providence, R. I.

"Lindy's" only failing is the women. His power over them is uncanny. His pleasant smile and personality will win him a multitude of friends. Member of "Red Stack," "Tony Lupone" Trio.

ANTHONY J. LUPONE

Pete

131 Baldwin Street, Waterbury, Conn.

Class Pool, 1926-1927; Class Bowling, 1926-1927; Class Swimming, 1926.

"Pete" has won a place for himself in the hearts of his classmates. A real fellow that can get along anywhere. His only weakness is the thoughts of his little sweet-heart.

PETER J. McCABE

Pete

Grey Court, N. Y.

Varsity Tennis Manager, 1927; Assistant Varsity Tennis Manager, 1926; Class Soccer, 1926; Chess and Checkers, 1926; Red Cross Life Saving, 1926; Crown and Spade, 1926; Advisory Board Men's Club, 1927; Neighborship Representative, 1926.

"Pete" has always been a booster for bigger and better Pratt spirit. The biggest little man in school. "Bill" Fisher's partner in the lighting business.

EMIL H. LUTZ

Lootz

6128 Linden Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Treasurer Student Branch A. S. M. E.; Class Tennis Manager, 1926-1927; Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Class Bowling, 1926-1927; Class Finance Committee, 1927.

A big fellow with a heart twice his size. One of the mainstays of the class. Favorite expression, "What can I do for you?" Excellent personality and a disposition that is rare. A real place awaits you in industry.

JAMES P. McCAFFREY

Mac

168 Clifton Avenue, Laurel Hill, L. I.

"Mac" has always been a silent member of the class. Interested in everything going on. We can't catch him at it. He is probably a stock holder in the transportation systems by this time.

EDMUND McCARTHY

Mac

618 Gibbons Street, Scranton, Pa.

A veteran of the late war. "Mac" comes to us on furlough from a locomotive cab. Naturally his interest lies in superheaters, valve motions and train orders. Electric locomotives will not displace steam trains, and the D. & H. is the finest railroad in the world. He is often mistaken for the milkman on Willoughby Avenue, and his mouth organ recitals will never be forgotten.

WILLIAM V. McCARTHY, JR.

Bill

171 Myrtle Avenue, Larchmont, N. Y.

"Bill" is another stock holder in the Open Air Line, and also uses Palmolive, giving Allen good competition. Can often be seen with Marble. Your ready smile and quick wit will linger with us.

ARCHIE McCORQUODALE

Mac

2221 Plaza, Schenectady, N. Y.

"Mac" is one of our quiet, modest, unassuming, chaps. Always backing the class in anything which will bring it credit. A good listener and one who has acquired the Pratt spirit to the Nth degree. Your friendship has been well received and our sincerest thoughts go with you.

WILLIAM T. MARBLE

Bill

Ridlonville, Me.

Member of the long squad. His only bad habit is to think that after the experiment is done we will forget it. He likes the water but can't get enough of it. May your future success be equal to your kindness.

JOSEPH MICHNE

Joe

Eastport, L. I.

Manager Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Soccer, 1926; Class Bowling, 1926-1927.

A backer of the class in everything, a true friend, willing worker and a real fellow. Not so small, not so big, but leaving memories not to be forgotten.

JOHN M. MILLER

John

South Road, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

So interested in aviation, that while all have seen him, few know him. He said, "Parachute jumping gave him a sprained ankle," we heard it was from hopping subway trains. John wants it understood he has not time for women. Should have no trouble in flying to the top.

ELMER G. MOFFAT

E. G.

Stop 38, Troy-Schenectady Road, Watervliet, N. Y.

Elmer entered the electrical school but soon changed to the better. His attitude has gained for him many friends among his classmates. His cheerfulness will compare with his size.

JOHN J. MOFFATT

Jack

195 Maple Street, New Britain, Conn.

The fact "Jack" comes from New Britain should not be held against him. Working evenings does not give him much time but, oh! boy, what a surprise the ladies get. He sure can handle 'em. We would like to know why he goes to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., so often.

JOSEPH MONTAGINO

Monty

673 East Ninety-eighth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Monty" left N. Y. U. when he heard about the real engineering course at Pratt. Understands all about instantaneous centers. A real fellow whose smile and pleasant ways are catching. Ask "Red" Burley, he knows.

GEORGE B. MOROSS

Moses

369 West 116th Street, New York City

We don't know much about "Geo." except that he was an officer during the World War, in the Russian Artillery, and attended a University at Moscow. Can make a piano talk, well liked and a close friend of Tchinnis. We are glad you picked us out.

ALFRED W. MOXON

Al

89 Newland A. Waverly, Sydney, N. S. W., Australia

Captain Class Soccer, 1927.

Having received enough electricity he joined us in our last year to find out why we like our course so well. Congeniality is his middle name. His only bad habit is missing connections on the way to school.

CARL J. MUND

Moon

6 Fountain Place, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The heaviest man in the class and one of the best natured. To see him any different would be like a tropic day in the Arctic. Can always be found where the eats are. A real backer of the class of 1927.

WILSON R. NICHOLS

Nick

Westhampton Beach, L. I.

Captain Class Basketball, 1927; Class Basketball, 1926; Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Track, 1926-1927; Class Swimming, 1926.

Athletics, that's his middle name. The chap with the rubber ankles. Impossible to be still. Well liked by both men and women, but a wow with the girls. Has helped make the class of 1927. Best wishes, "Nick."

DONALD W. PARKER

Don

47 Curtis Street, New Britain, Conn.

Class Duck Pins, 1926-1927; Class Tennis, 1926-1927.

Aside from studies, in which he excelled, the genial Don's main issue was, "Did you hear this one?" As a social lion he would have ranked highly, but being no women's man we never had the opportunity of hearing him divulge his wit in their presence. Member of the "Wahoo Club."

ELMER D. PATTERSON

Pat

46 Park Avenue, Bayshore, L. I.

Class Basketball, 1926-1927.

Although he appears very quiet and slow with the weaker sex, he is a sure success when it comes to engineering. "Pat" is at home on the court and likes it rough. His favorite expression, "I'm not kidding you a bit."

DONALD J. PEGG

Don

52 Madison Street, Newton, N. J.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927.

Answers to the name of "Don," or what have you? Born somewhere west of the Mississippi, and itching to get back there, where men are men and women governors. Has a good sense of humor, likes to travel. When arriving at school and having nothing else to do he stayed. A master of calculus and electricity. Founder of the Wahoo Club.

WILLIAM F. S. PELL

Bill

443 East Fourth Street, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

A combination of work and pleasure. His personality radiates itself to those about him. "When better cars are made, Bill' will drive them." He came to us from electricity, liked us and stayed.

ROY C. PETERSEN

Pete

7710 Ninety-seventh Avenue, Woodhaven, L. I.

Class Vice-President, 1926-1927; Varsity Cheer Leader, 1927; Assistant Varsity Cheer Leader, 1926; Chairman Student Committee Alumni Day, 1926.

The official New York guide for all out of town classmates. Can be found at all games doing his stuff. You are too late, girls, she even comes to the games to keep her eye on him. He also swings a mean notary seal.

PAUL M. RENKER

Red

271 Sunnyside Avenue, Waterbury, Conn.

Leader of the troupe which made the Knickerbocker Grill famous. Can be located if you find "Farry." Favorite expression: "Hey Marble, come here." "Red" is too busy with his books to bother about women????? A member of the Pegg & Renker Dancing School. World War Veteran, U. S. Navy.

RAYMOND V. ROGERS

Ray

Saltville, Va.

Class Secretary, 1926-1927; Assistant Manager Men's Club, 1927.

Natural habitat, Men's Club or 291 Ryerson Street. Strong for Virginia ham and the Southland. Writing a book that will do away with Descriptive and Calculus. A more delightful disposition we haven't found. Can sometimes be located looking for Pegg, also by his evening musicals on the saw.

RODNEY F. SANFORD

Rod

Masonic Club, Syracuse, N. Y.
Class President, 1926-1927; Varsity Baseball, 1926-1927;
Inter-Class Soccer Manager, 1926; Class Basketball, 1927;
President Student Council, 1927; Student Council, 1926; Advisory Committee Men's Club, 1927; Supervisor of Boxing, 1927.

Having been a "Top" Sergeant of Infantry, U. S. A., in the World War, he knows just what to do. "Rod" is the kind of a fellow everyone just naturally likes. He is everybody's friend, and always ready to help the other fellow. His character, integrity, and power to judge human nature are bound to make him a great corporation executive. Wahoo Club.

RAYMOND L. SCHELLING

Ray

9420 Forbell Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Assistant Manager Varsity Baseball, 1926; Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Swimming, 1926.

Young, but a real chap. One of the few who have acquired a large variety of names, such as "Little Leslie, and Kid Speed." The only man in the class to have his picture in the Daily News. No, not matrimonial trouble; simply won a limerick prize. A waffle hound.

EMIL G. SCHNITZSPAHN

Schnitz

Main Street, Bound Brook, N. J.

Vice-President A. S. M. E.

A real he man, but couldn't be without his pal Boyle. The reason for leaving Squad G, section I. A wow with the ladies and how he can dance. It is believed he is a stock holder in Boyle's hot-dog stand. Your success is assured.

JOSEPH SCHULTZ, JR.

Joe

48 Stoehr Place, Bridgeport, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Swimming, 1926.

We hear "Joe" plays a mean sax and piano, and gets along famously with the ladies. "Joe" takes to water like a duck, but didn't have an opportunity to do his stuff.

FRED G. SEELGEN

Fred

212 Sixth Street, Bridgeport, Conn.

Another Nutmeg of which we are proud. A strong believer in Bridgeport against the world. Can be found in the same locality as Dick Wood. Member of "Wahoo Club." Mental question: Does it take a four year course to cake a pipe?

RAYMOND J. SEXTON

Sex

306 Brown Street, Union City, N. J.

Known to all as "Sex." Is a favorite with Mr. Dale. Favorite expression, "I told you so." Manages to get to school alone. Has never seen a straight banana. Would be a great favorite with the ladies if he would let them take him out.

MURRAY G. SMALL

Murray

Northwood, N. H.

So quiet the instructors must look twice to see if he is in the room. Not much bigger than his name. Takes great interest in the class activities but doesn't show it. Has a hard time keeping up with Sexton in design. A real chap.

HEDLEY V. SEYMOUR

Hedley

923 Seventy-eighth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Started in at Annapolis and thought he could play football. After the wreckage had been cleared away enough was salvaged to save him. A real he man, good boxer and just naturally likeable. A true friend. We can't believe a hard boiled gob ever owned a real Dunhill.

WALTER F. SCULLY

Walt

R. F. D. No. 3, Middletown, Conn.

The boy mathematician and expert on cams, takes no one's word for anything. For diversion he takes a fall out of Sexton and livens up things when design problems become tiresome. Luck to you, you are bound to make good.

DONALD V. SPOOR

Don

739 Brandywine Avenue, Schenectady, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1926; Circulation Manager, 1927; Member Student Council, 1927.

A member of the "Three Club." Has finally found the only one. A good looking chap, and was a heart breaker with the women. A hard and tireless worker for Prattonia. You shall succeed. Quality is what counts and "Don" has it.

DONALD P. STACK

Red

145 East Liberty Street, Waterbury, Conn.

Class Soccer Team, 1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Nutmeg Club.

"Red's" pleasing personality and good nature is always evident, even in goal tending or on the diamond. Has a good appetite for cake. Member of Lupone, Lindy, Corp.

STEPHEN J. SUPPICICH

Steve

64 Wolcott Hill Road, Wethersfield, Conn.

"Steve's" attention is mostly focused on the Carol Club. Therefore we do not see much of him. Yes, she comes to our dances. We believe it won't be so far away. Expects to start a dancing school in competition to Ned Weyburn, and will be a wow.

CHRISTOPHER M. TCHINNIS

Chris

439 East Eighty-fifth Street, New York City

A member of the Moross Corp. A whiz in electricity and all the rest. "Chris" has never lost an opportunity to help some one else. You have a good foundation and we will be waiting to hear of your success.

JOHN M. TILLEY

John

1356 Northhamton Street, Holyoke, Mass.

Manager Class Swimming, 1926.

Silent as the Sphinx, knows his stuff especially mathematics. Known in Deerfield Academy as the Champion African Golf player. Could easily make a million advertising Simmon's beds. Is kind, thoughtful and unassuming. Will always help you if you can get him to talk. Wahoo Club.

FRED T. WEBER, JR.

Fred

Wesley Street, Monmouth Beach, N. J.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Swimming, 1926.

Athletics is Fred's hobby, when not chasing around the island for a girl. Game for either a fight or a frolic. Seems to team well with "Nick". A good man on first base.

LEE T. WOLD

Trees

Westfield Road, Meriden, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927.

A real fellow, likes the girls and gets along real well with them. We would like to know where he manages to hide. Is it really as serious as that, Trees? Can be seen at games and dances and then disappears. We hope to solve it soon.

RICHARD S. WOOD

Dick

161 Bunnell Street, Bridgeport, Conn.

Manager Class Soccer, 1926-1927.

The best soccer player in Pratt. His timely toe saved us from many defeats. Taking the ball away and returning it kept us on our toes. Hope you will remember us, your soccer days, and that we wish you great success. Member of the Wahoo Club.

EUGENE T. ZACK

Big Zack

Jeannette, Pa.

No one can ever forget "Big Zack," when he throws out his chest. Oh! boy, Strangler Lewis had better look to his laurels. As a silent backer of class affairs we are always assured of his support. Work kept him out of class athletics, but his spirit was with us. We know you will succeed, "Zack," and have our sincere wishes.

INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING, 1928

So this is Pratt.

At the opening address we were informed that Industrial Mechanical Engineering men are the one and only, nonesuch, etc., group at Pratt. This statement left a very marked impression on our thoughts. The constant recurrance of this though, stimulated by Mr. Harper, our genial director, has led us to develop an overwhelming spirit and a wholesome interest in our work and play. The honor due Mechanical Engineering men must and will be upheld.

After having taken Descriptive Geometry we were thoroughly convinced of the denseness of gray matter encased in our craniums in respect to imagining lines and figures in (the empty) space (between the ears). We have not the least doubt in our minds as to whether we have learned anything in Electric Laboratory, but the fact nevertheless, remains, that the laboratory carries on a considerable trade in blown-out fuses. Of course, one must learn, (or go without eating).

Mechanical Drawing offers wonderful opportunities of learning. (New jokes, wise cracks, etc). The situation at times becoming so tense that the instructor has to resort to a club. (Not the Pratt Men's Club). In our class, Mathematics is known as "Hot Stuff." But contrary to the invigorating cognomen adopted, it exacts an extremely disconcerting influence on our erstwhile conceptions of superiority of mind over matter. Whatever doubts we entertained the previous night, concerning the type of boiler-makers we ought to be, are entirely dissipated the next morning by the earnest talks and amusing incidents as related by our Mathematics Instructor. We owe Mr. Marsh more than we can ever hope to repay, and by our earnest effort and constant striving for bigger and better (answers) things in life we know that he will feel repaid.

In sports we have been successful in turning out a representative Soccer team imbued with the Mechanical's spirit. They did not win the championship, due mainly to lack of experience, but then they finished their season well up in the lead.

THE INDUSTRIAL MECHANICAL ENGINEERING ASSOCIATION

Under the guidance of the Class of 1927, the Industrial Mechanical Engineering Association has completed the seventh year of its existence. We have earnestly endeavored to make this year one that will compare with the best. Our Honorary President, Mr. Harper, and Faculty Advisor, Mr. Dale, have always been available to give us advice and assistance.

This Association has afforded us a meeting ground where we could help each other attain that ease of expression so necessary to the young engineer when appearing before the public. We have averaged seven meetings each term, at which many splendid papers, several motion pictures, and lectures on technical subjects were presented and discussed in open forum. Several inspection trips were made, including trips to the 59th Street Power Plant of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and Brooklyn Navy Yard.

We joined with the Student Branches of the American Society Mechanical Engineers in the Metropolitan District, in holding the annual convention of the Student Branches, Wednesday, March 16th, when we enjoyed not only an interesting program but inspection trips which included the Hudson Avenue Station of the Brooklyn Edison Co. As guests of the Senior Society at their session in the evening, we had an opportunity to mingle with those men who have done so much to raise the engineering profession to the high plane it now holds.

To the officers of the Senior Society and to all others who assisted us, we give our sincere thanks.

Environment and association—how great a part these two play in our daily lives; and how they bend our thoughts.

Two short years ago we stood before the portals of Pratt seeking admission, alone, and hoping she would accept us as her sons. We came from many lands; from farm, from factory, and from the sea, eager to absorb the knowledge Pratt held for us and to give our best in return.

Today we look retrospectively over those two years and recognize the preparation she has given us for our entry into the engineering field.

In our first year she taught us the Why and Wherefore of fundamental Things so that in our second we might not be taken unaware by Mr. Cook's vectors and phase angles, by the derivatives and differentials of Mr. Cowles or by Mr. Carr's quest for causes and effects. No, not even by Mr. Petersen's designs, Mr. "Horse Power" Miller's contsructions, Mr. Barclay's miraculous injectors or Mr. Burley's left hand threads were we found unprepared.

Though great as is the knowledge we received from her, she has given us something greater—our associations.

We have made many friends in class, at our social gatherings, and on the athletic field, both among our classmates and our instructors.

Only when we weigh what Pratt has given us against what we gave in return, do we realize that the debt we owe our Alma Mater can be repaid in no other way than by our unfailing loyalty to her and our maintenance of her lofty ideals throughout our lives.

INDUSTRIAL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING I, 1928

It was in the Fall of 1926 that a class of new students entered Pratt, total strangers to the customs of the Institute. We came from all sections of the land, mingling together, and forming friendships that later were to mean so much to us. After the first few days of much carrying of books and endless instruction as to methods of doing our work we finally settled down to master the subjects of the Industrial Electrical Engineering course. We soon found out that there was plenty of work to be done, which required our constant efforts; also that our instructors were our best friends, always willing and ready to help us in time of need.

However, we soon found time to put out a soccer team that at first knew nothing of the game at all. They played hard, learning as they went; so that by the end of the season we had high hopes of them giving a good account of themselves the following year, even though they had not brought a game into our camp this season.

The basketball team gained great honors for us, by quickly gaining the lead, placing them in line for the championship of the school. Great credit is due our basketball team for their untiring efforts, which has made the above record possible. We hope to do the same with baseball as the boys have caught the winning spirit.

In our recreations all of us who have availed ourselves of the various opportunities have found much enjoyment in them, an enjoyment that has greatly helped us while at the Institute. We also must look to our upper classmen whose sympathy and guidance throughout our first year has been of the greatest value to us. We hope that, likewise, we may set even a better example to those who are to follow us.

In conclusion we resolve that there has never been a better class at Pratt Institute than the Industrial Electrical Engineering class of '28. We sincerely hope that each and every member of this class will be on hand to greet each other when the doors of Pratt open once again in the Fall of 1927.

ELECTRICAL ASSOCIATION

During the first year of our sojourn at Pratt Institute we often wondered just what the purpose of the Electrical Association was. We were told that we were junior members but that was all. Every month or so we were invited to a meeting held in the Assembly Hall where a noted speaker would divulge of his store of knowledge regarding some piece of apparatus or manufacturing method. We were usually very thankful to be excused from class in order to attend these meetings, but we had no idea of the real meaning of the Association until we returned our second year.

We found that the Association was organized some twenty-six years ago for the express purpose of keeping its members in close touch with industrial practices. Three years ago it was decided that the Association should be given place on the schedule so that its members might hold meetings more regularly. Since then, the Association has held about thirty meetings during the school year. These meetings are addrssed by members on topics selected and prepared by themselves. The object of these meetings is to promote research and to provide its members with practical training in the ability to give clear, concise, and descriptive talks before an audience which is very critical in regards to details.

We are of the opinion that the benefit derived from the Association could be greatly augmented if, during the first year, the Junior Branch of the organization were incorporated with the English course. This would give the opportunity to prepare technical papers under the guidance of an English instructor. We feel quite certain that the quality of the papers presented during the second year could be greatly improved if this suggestion were followed.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING II, 1927

Throughout the Summer vacation, we looked forward eagerly to coming back to Pratt Tech. When the day finally came, it was wonderful to see the fellows together again. We had hardly said "Hello" however, when we were embarked on our new course of studies.

"Doc" Rogers, the man with the perfect personality, made his first official appearance on the opening day. Despite the arid material he covered, we can truthfully say that there was never a dull moment in "Doc's" classes.

Dr. Snell also flashed his famous smile upon us, and proceeded to take up the task of teaching technical chemistry and laboratory. He handled these difficult subjects with easy assurance, and never once lost patience with us, impossible as it may seem.

Dr. Mantell initiated us into the mazes and mysteries of chemical design. "Doc" proved a wonderful example of pep and brilliance. He is as popular at Pratt as he was in Porto Rico, where, it is said that the inhabitants were so delighted with him that they would not allow him to return. (This report may be slightly exaggerated.)

Mr. Thompson, a newcomer to Pratt Institute, taught us mathematics, as conceived by H. W. M. Mr. Thompson became tremendously popular, and it was with regret we said goodbye at the end of the Fall term.

Mr. Baxley guided us through the dangers and pitfalls of mechanical technology. We emerged from the dense fog of beams, only to be surrounded by great clouds of steam.

During the Winter term we again invaded the machinery building, where, under the supervision of Mr. Burley, we met lathes face to face.

The last year is nearly over now, and new responsibilities await us. May we assume them with the confidence gained from two busy years at Pratt Tech! Selah!

"Eppy" is a big man in his field, if six feet one inch mean anything. His irrepressible sense of humor allows him to see the funny side of life, while a deep vein of seriousness strikes a balance which makes him liked by all.

IRVING A. GEMMELL

Gem

Tommy

106 North Figueroa Street, Los Angeles, Cal.

"Tommy" is one of our many examples of industry under forced draft. Any noon he may be found in the design room, knee deep in logarithms, gravimetric factors, equivalent weights or what have you? Expects to be a big leather man in the beefsteak industry.

WILLIAM E. KNAPPMAN

Red

123 Parkside Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer Champs, 1926; Manager Chemical Soccer, 1927; Manager Class Pool, 1927.

"Red" is our famous high-pressure salesman and silvertonsiled tenor. His voice resounds through the Prattonian corridors whenever he locates an audience. We predict a brilliant future for him, in some industry where hot-air in quantity is required.

IRVING E. LIGHTBOWN

Red

335 Birch Street, Fall River, Mass.

Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Soccer, 1926; Treasurer, 1926; Vice-President, 1927.

"Red" is good nature personified, and is certain to gain popularity wherever he goes. He is never at a loss for a comeback! We hear also, that by his preferences, he has claim to the title of "Gentleman."

WESLEY K. McCREADY

Dad

Saltville, Va.

Varsity Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Bowling, 1926-1927.

"Dad" is known far and wide for his unfailing good nature. Absolutely refuses to worry—just keeps on working. One of our best-liked classmates.

WYNDHAM P. McCREADY

Mac

Saltville, Va.

Editor-in-Chief, Prattonia, 1927; President Class, 1926-1927; Student Council, 1926-1927; Wholer Dance Committee, 1926.

"Mac" served well throughout the strenuous two years as Class President. He handled several delicate situations with an ease a diplomat might envy. Don't forget us, Mac, when you return to Saltville.

JAMES ELLISON MORSE, JR.

48 Park Street, Danvers, Mass.

Class Baseball, 1926-1927; New England Club; Wohler Chemical Association.

Elly had a hard time getting used to being away from home, or some one at home. We expect to hear a lot from him in his chosen field of Leather Finishings.

ALEXIS PESTOFF

Pesty

Elly

Willoughby Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Wohler Chemical Association.

The brightest ever, and always willing to help those of us who found the going hard. When "Pesty" got his allotment of "A's" there weren't many left for the rest of us. He plans to enter the oil industry, and you can bet he is going to succeed.

JOHN B. REYNOLDS

J. B.

245 Spring Street, Newton, N. J.

Wohler Chemical Association.

The little man from New Jersey. A quiet unassuming chap who knows a whole lot more than he tells. 'Tis said he swings a mean golf club.

ANDREW SALAMATOV

Andrew

57 Arbat Street, Apartment 27, Moscow, Russia

Wohler Chemical Association.

Andrew is "The Chemist" of the class. Day or night you'll find him chasing the molecules and "what-not" all over the laboratory. He hails from Russia, and can recite some exciting tales of his war and revolutionary experiences.

ARTHUR J. SIKORA

Artie

R. F. D., No. 1, Plainfield, N. J.

Chairman of the Wohler Social Committee; Class Baseball, 1926-1927.

Artie is one of the "gang." Always ready to step in and entertain with some little stunt or dance. He is also the "Beau Brummel" of the class.

Pratfonia, 1927

DENNIS E. SULLIVAN

Sully

Fall River, Mass.

President of the Wohler Chemical Association, 1927. Vice-President of the Wohler Chemical Association, 1926.

When Sully gets up to talk we listen—an honor granted to few. He has been around a lot and knows a thing or two about the world.

CLIFFORD ROY SWETT

Cliff

Pine Street, Dixfield, Maine

Class Secretary, 1927.

We can thank Maine for sending us such a fellow as "Cliff." He certainly has been a wonderful pal and one we won't soon forget. He can't help but succeed in the paper business. The gas house district is "Cliff's" all night hang-out.

LOREN ALBERT WAKELEE

Wake

257 Wakelee Avenue, Ansonia, Conn.

Wohler Chemical Society; New England Club.

"Wake," the loyal son of Connecticut, you can't call him quiet and you can't call him noisy, just a happy medium. A peach of a fellow and right there with a helping hand. "Wake" would rather sleep than listen to morning lectures though. Tough, aint it, kid?

JOSEPH EARL WILLIAMSON

Doc

56 Hazelwood Avenue, Bridgeport, Conn.

Class Vice-President, 1926; Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Basketball Captain, 1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; New England Club.

"Doc," with his big smile and cheerful words found a place in our hearts where he won't soon be forgotten. An ardent athlete of no small ability, basketball being his mainstay. We all hope he goes over as big in his field of work as he did with us. Good luck, "Doc."

RUSSELL P. WINTER

Rus

321 Lombard Street, New Haven, Conn.

Varsity Tennis, 1926-1927; Manager Class Tennis, 1927; Class Basketball, 1927; New England Club.

"Rus" is one of our best class athletes, his specialty being tennis. We expect him to be a champion in that line, soon. He is very well liked by all, being a hard worker and very reliable. He has one bad fault, he is "not at home" week-ends. "What is the attraction in New Haven, Rus?"

HENRY HOMER WURTS

Fairy

220 St. James Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Life Saving; Swimming, 1926.

"Homer" is a firm upholder of the eighteenth amendment. He is a conscientious worker and is always ready to lend a helping hand. From the very beginning he has held the title of class questionnaire.

INDUSTRIAL CHEMICAL ENGINEERING I, 1928

In the Fall of 1926, there sauntered through the gates of Pratt a hopeful, vet bewildered group of candidates seeking the title of "Chemist."

It was good Mr. Allen that came to our rescue, instructing and advising us in the peculiarities and difficulties that would confront us during the ensuing year. He gave us our first real knowledge of the Pratt spirit, and told us how we should act in order to help her to preserve those high ideals.

Feeling much better for his advise, we started off to make the acquaintance of Mr. Thompson. What he had in store for us sounded not too good, but in any case, we decided that our instructor was made of the right stuff and we'd stick by him for better or worse. Thusly, we were introduced to the mannerisms of Pratt, and to the fact that things were not as black as they had first appeared.

It was not very long (comparatively speaking) before we had those mysterious Ph's of Mr. Jenness doing some brand new tricks. And as for Forge and Foundry, why it was only the other day that Mr. Miller was overheard to say, "I wish all my classes were chemists," that is, almost.

In this patronizing spirit we meandered from building to building, picking up, here and there, little bits of knowledge, but more especially, showing the instructors that we differed but little from the traditional line of chemists.

Supplementary to our scholastic activities were those of social and athletic nature. First year men were seen on all the Chemistry teams, and in no small way helped to make those teams the formidable aggregations that they proved to be. Likewise, the Chemistry smokers and dances were well attended by the class of 1928.

Considering all in all, the year has been a most successful one, and with everyone acquainted and pulling together, the next year should see many honors coming our way.

THE "WÖHLER" CHEMICAL ASSOCIATION

The Wöhler Chemical Association, formed for the promotion of good fellowship among the Chemistry students, was founded in 1905. Through this medium, the view point of the student is broadened by the various lectures given at the meetings by men expert in their particular fields of occupation. The Chemistry men named their association after the German Chemist, Wöhler, better known as, "The Father of Organic Chemistry."

There is a universal slogan for the association generally recited by the Treasurer; the slogan is "Wöhler Dues." The men like to hear this almost as much as their homework assignments. A banquet is held annually for the members, which always proves to be a very successful affair. A form of entertainment is given later by the more talented members, which affords more laughs than a freshman in the vicinity of Pratt wearing knickers.

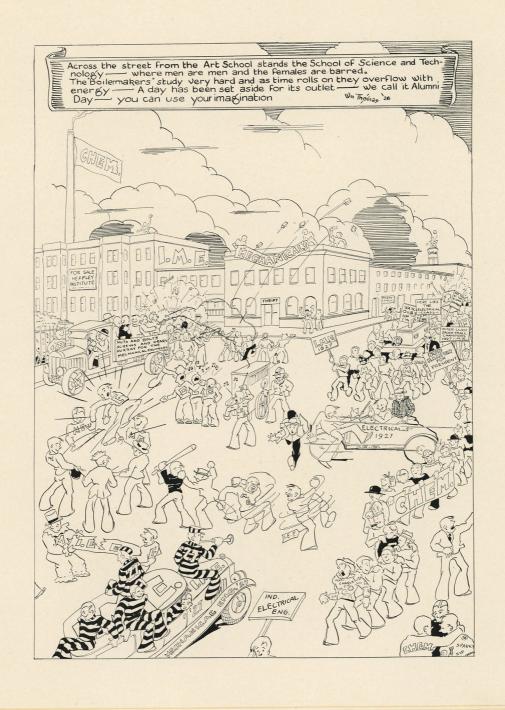

Without this association, the Chemistry students would no doubt lose that stick-together attitude, as it certainly promotes a brotherly feeling among its members. The knowledge gained at the meetings is very practical, exactly what the graduate needs on entering the industrial world.

AFTER DRAWING A PIRATE IN ROOM 31

Oh, for the life of a pirate, To rove over the bounding main, And touch the shores of adventure And there supreme to reign.

'Midst cries and songs and laughter, With shouts of pure delight, We'd capture laden galleons And scuttle them out of sight!

Then off to chartered islands, To find jewels and gold galore, We'd revel in sudden riches, And sail away for more.

Ho then, for the life of a pirate, Who has nothing to do but to roam, While we, who weave these stories, Do nothing, but stay at home.

ARCHITECTURE III, 1927

Biographies of great men are written primarily to extol the virtues of these few. Therefore, in this, our class history, it would be quite logical and natural to praise the work of us, twenty, third year students. It is really not necessary, however, to make mention of the extraordinary ability of the ten Construction men, their ready solution of difficult formulae, their accuracy in figuring and the high degree of proficiency they attained in their field.

Due attention must, by all means, be given those who have taken infinite pains to provide us with interesting problems. Mr. Price did his best in expounding his many different theories and formulae, for which the Construction men easily fell. On Monday mornings an enthralled audience would be found in the Construction Room (even after twelve o'clock). The attraction for such an interested gathering would be Mr. Haugaard who would be vividly recounting his experiences in "Interior Design and Detailing." Also eager to help the students was Mr. Edminster who, in an effort to please the Construction men, obligingly consented to give them one or two of their problems a week or so before the scheduled time. Not content with this, the Construction men desiring to hear their names called, finally persuaded Mr. Edminster to call the roll four times a day. To appease their vanity, the Design men would serenade them with the song, entitled, "I Hope You're Satisfied."

Outside of these few busy hours, we third year men had time to attend the many social events and to take part in the many athletic diversions. Being the smallest participating group in athletics, at Pratt, we managed somehow to annex three championships last year. This year we have achieved the highest honors in Soccer and Duckpins, also having very good prospects of winning championships in Track, Baseball and Tennis. Being exponents of the good and pure in all things and desiring to keep well informed as to current news, only tabloid newspapers were brought to class and read. Uufortunately, it is inevitable that we must part to tread different paths and meet our allotted tasks; but though the going be rough or easy, we will keep, forever, in mind, the pleasant thoughts associated with our days at Pratt.

IRVING C. WALLEN, President RALPH V. LONGYEAR, Vice-President A. HENRY JOHNSON, Secretary RUSSEL R. KILBURN, Treasurer

ALLAN M. ANTHONY, Prattonia Reprsentative

Prattonia, 1927

ALLAN MAYNE ANTHONY

Mark

Courtland Hill, Stamford, Conn.

Prattonia Representative; Architects' Dance Committee.

The major part of "Mark's" time is devoted to studying full size details at the "National Winter Galleries," while his spare moments are spent at Pratt rendering window shades and replacing lamps. His lectures on "plumbing" proved beneficial to the class.

BERNHARDT T. BERMAN

Bernie

529 Hopkinson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A fine fellow, tries hard, but still his mustache hasn't come to the surface. His renderings are good examples of Mr. Guptill's work. His specialty is rendering marble, but we believe he would make a better salesman.

SIMON L. BREINES

Raymond Hood

130 Hart Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1925-1926; Class Tennis.

Can depend on "Si" to arrive in class at ten sharp every morning. Due to Van's critisisms "Si" hands in some very nice problems. Spends a great deal of his time in trying to win competitions and hand-shaking.

BARTON B. CORWIN

639 Main Street, Greenport, L. I.

Corwin has been spending considerable time developing a new process called, "Short Hand Architecture," but so far, Mr. Guptill has had to do the long end of it. He devotes considerable time to bedroom planning in apartments.

ROBERT E. EASTWOOD

Bob

260 Washington Street, Norwich, Conn.

Architects' Dance Committee.

Bob does most of his work at home, then comes to school to see how the boys are making out. "Gentlemen prefer Blondes," but "Bob" is no gentleman. A good scout and has many friends.

JOHN F. FOLEY

Jack

6 High Street, Little Falls, N. Y.

The "Big shot" from Little Falls. He is acquainted with all politicians and people of prominence, including the captain of the "Levi Nathan." He never works, but he always gets the problems in. How does he do it?

TRYGVE C. FOLSTAD

Trig

20 Adlaide Place, Edgewater, N. J.

Class Track; Student Affiliate.

"Trig" is the water color artist of the class. A very good student and well liked by every one. With his talent should have no trouble in winning the "Grand Prix de Eggnog."

MELCHIORE GERACI

162 Stuyvesant Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A patient, persistant plugger, rather quiet except when he gets into an argument at noon time on the modern flapper. Likes to get the "News," and as a result is well versed in scandals of the day.

ROBERT H. HILLIER

65 Quincy Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Track Team.

Silence is golden so he should be a multi-millionaire. A hard and steady worker and is sure to get ahead. His one trouble is that he works so fast in "Lab," he has to do his experiments all over again.

THOMAS HOPKINS

Hop

R. D. No. 1, West Albany, N. Y.

Architect Librarian; Winner of A. I. A. Competition.

A quiet, hard working chap who should some day "arrive." Where? We don't know.

A. HENRY JOHNSON

O Henry

123 Eighty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Track; Class Bowling, 1927.

Our assistant instructor—bashful when it comes to the "wimmen," but always there with a smile when it comes to work. Spends considerable time on the bowling alleys, and can he bowl?

RUSSELL R. KILBURN

Russ

78 Bayles Street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Entertainment Committee; Assistant Varsity Manager Basketball, 1925; Soccer, 1925-1926-1927; Interclass Basketball Manager, 1927; Pratt Representative, 1925-1926.

"Rus" has a great weakness for women. Always in a hurry going nowhere. Should go into the ivory business where everything is cash, the turnover great, and working hours are seven to eleven.

RALPH V. LONGYEAR

Pat

83 Elmendorf Street, Kingston, N. Y.

Varsity Basketball, 1924-1925-1926; Captain Varsity, 1925-1926; Vice-President Class, 1924; Class Baseball Captain, 1925; President Athletic Association, 1925-1926; Class Soccer.

"Pat" is a marvel on the basketball court, being captain of the Varsity Basketball Team. Between games manages to do some work on the side. Always has a smile, and has many friends of the opposite sex.

CHARLES MALTBY

Charley

627 East Gansevoort Street, Little Falls, N. Y.

We don't know how "Cholly" gets along without his old stand-by, Mott, but when it comes to winning competitions or arguments, "Cholly" is right there. A wizard mathematician.

J. ARDUINO PATRIZIO

Pat

108-21 Union Hall Street, Jamaica, L. I.

Class Bowling.

"Pat" is our strong man, not only physically but in mechanics, design and laboratory. He looks like a butcher but doesn't even cut classes. I am through with my next problem, Mr. Edminster.

ANDRE SCHWOB

49 St. Nicholas Terrace, New York City

Pool, 1926-1927; Soccer, 1925-1926-1927.

Maltby's right hand man. Between problems shoots a little pool in which he has become quite proficient, but still needs years of practice. Has had a range of experience in the soccer field but still doesn't remember on which side he plays.

HAROLD JAMES TIMMERMAN

Jimmy

31 Salisbury Street, Little Falls, N. Y.

An example of what three years in a co-ed can do to a bachelor. Slow but sure is "Timmey's" motto and he sure gets there. One of the boys who is never at the "Library."

VAN DER KAR

Cass Gilbert

566 Seventy-seventh Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Soccer, 1925-1926; Bowling, 1925-1926-1927; Class Tennis, 1926.

Class critic and supervisor. Author of "Famous Architects Who Have Met Me." We expect Van to someday be a second Otto Eggers. A member of the firm of Breines and Van Der Kar.

IRVIN WALLEN

Sargent

149 Eighty-first Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Soccer; Track; Class President; Student Council; Basket-

Hail to the president of our class. A steady plugger and knows how to handle the boys, which is quite a problem at times.

RUDOLPH ZICHA

Rudy

516 East Eighty-seventh Street, New York City

Inter-Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Varsity Baseball, 1925; Pool, 1925-1926-1927; Track, 1927; Duck Pins, 1926-1927.

The marble king who carries a splendid sample on his shoulders. The Beau Brummel of the class and a "whiz" with the women. Coffee and—Schwob.

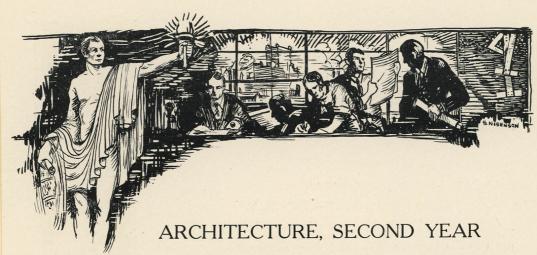

Introducing one of the reasons for Pratt's high standing as a good school, the Architectural Class of 1927.

Our return to school marked our branching into design, construction, of being artists or engineers. Those who elected design began to discourage Mr. Rowe with halocial buildings, so different from anything ever done from the Stone Age down to the present, therefore we claim to be the founders of a new style of architecture. Mr. Guptill taught us the art of "throwing up" perspectives and what rendering he didn't do on our drawings we completed ourselves whenever we had any spare time. Mr. Pratt got a big kick out of our ability at Interior Design and Decoration.

The engineers, under the guidance of Mr. Edminister and Mr. Price, drew up buildings of steel, brick and concrete. Mr. Price taught us how to figure beams, girders, columns and footings after much discussing and plenty of "cussing." While "Eddie" gave out and called in our problems whenever he caught us having a recreation period. Monday mornings was the proper time for Mr. Havgaard to come over, for he sure did make it a regular Blue Monday for most of us. "Sleepy Hollow" was the scene of plenty of good lectures thanks to Mr. Green and others.

The Architects found time to win the soccer and 1926 baseball championships as well as running two of the best "hops" of the year. And now for some record busting on our own "hook" for alas, the history of our class foresome, is ended, and the problem is to get out and get as much out of the business life as we have out of school life. Lots of luck to you boys, and as for the rest of the gang that are fortunate enough to be able to return, don't forget that Pratt holds another year of good hard work for you, broken up with lots of good clean fun.

Class Soccer, 1927.

A clever draftsman and cartoonist. He only has two bad habits. I. Matching pennies. 2. "Her." You'll probably find him in the hall on the third floor at nine o'clock, noon and at four o'clock.

NEWTON H. BORGERSON

Newt

R. F. D. No. 1, Munson, Mass.

Class Vice-President, 1926.

Introducing "Newt" Borgerson, our Pratt Institute Lunch Representative, the inventor of soup sandwiches. Pick the bones out of that. Noah Berry "of the Architects." "Won't you look at my drawing Mr. Haugard?" "To New Haven for the week-end, Newt?"

EVERET C. BRADLEY

Brad

114 Elm Street, West Haven, Conn.

Assistant Manager Varsity Basketball, 1926.

Quiet, unassuming and good natured. He is everybody's friend. Too bad he can't handle soda. "How about tickets for Friday's game?"

HERBERT J. BRADLEY

Herb

28 East Middle Turnpike, South Manchester, Conn.

Life Saving, 1926; Class Swimming Team, 1926.

Our champion hand-shaker. Practice makes perfect. A mechanic's shark and hard worker. "How about some extra drawings on this problem, Mr. Edminster?"

LOUIS F. BRASS

Lou

998 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1926; Class Bowling, 1926.

The bear skin boy from Brooklyn. We wonder how he always has a pool table at noon. "Coffee and, Smally?"

RENE V. BRUGNONI

Rene

217 East Eighty-second Street, New York City

Professor Brugnoni, teacher of dancing and tree rendering. He sure swings a mean brush. He started that "foil" business among the Architects. Supports all social events with the same partner.

E. LYNN CARTER

Nick

74 Cruikshank Avenue, Hempstead, L. I., N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Bowling, 1927.

Our house detective. He certainly aught to make a whiz of a chess champ. "Who took my pants?" Have you seen his Christmas jacket?

PAUL CONAWAY

Paul

Maxwell Avenue, Bayside, L. I., N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1927.

"Here's how we mix cement, Mr. Price." His ears make wonderful sails which probably accounts for his sailing into a problem. Well liked and good natured.

ROBERT G. CREIGHTON

Bob

8 South Maple Avenue, East Orange, N. J.

Class Baseball, 1926-1927.

Another one of those quiet fellows who always gets there. You start something and he'll back you every time. Too bad he comes from Jersey.

ROBERT H. CUMMINGS

Highland, N. Y.

When you see "Ted" you see "Bob" and they're always hungry. We heard that he is part owner of an apartment de-luxe. He has been seen carrying a big board which makes us wonder.

SAMUEL ENTLICH

Salesman Sam

994 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Track, 1927; Life Saving, 1926; Class Swimming Team, 1926

"Sam" traded his Listerene for two pencils and a smoked herring. Keep your hat on, Sam, you're eating. Sam is an excellent worker and is bound to make a success of himself.

THEODORE FICHTEL

Ted

137 Van Guilder Terrace, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Always seen with "Bob" and also has an awful appetite. If you don't believe it ask "Otto." What's it like to be in love, Ted? Some upper lip he has.

WILLIS D. FOOTE

Feet

1060 North Michigan Avenue, Pasadena, Cal.

Our long distance commuter from Pasadena. "Feet" pushes a wicked pencil in free hand. Unlike his name he is always on "hand" at the social events. Something for California to be proud of.

A. MORGAN GATES

Morgue

240 West Rock Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

Class Secretary, 1926; Prattonia Representative, 1926-1927; Social Committee, 1926-1927.

"Just a minute, Mr. Price, one more question please."

"Where are you going, 'Morgue,' to measure the library again?" "Gates" is well known and liked not only by the gang, but by the weaker sex. An enthusiastic backer of social and athletic events.

ALBERT J. GRAESSER

Al

86 Winthrop Avenue, New Britian, Conn.

133 Steele Road, West Hartford, Conn.

Crew, 1926-1927; Ping Pong Team, 1926-1927.

"Willie Whistle" is the hot air artist of the architectural design class, also supports the best horse laugh in four states. When not in class, can be found at the Star Burlesque eating bird seed.

NELSON O. GOULD

Goul

Central Drive, Port Washington, L. I.

Manager Class Track Team, 1927.

A lot of us wish we had his seat out there away from watchful eyes. He is a loyal supporter of social and athletic events in spite of his commuting. You can't help but like him.

J. FRED HECHT

Fred or Bill

12 Norwood Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Manager Class Basketball, 1927.

We don't know which one he is but he's a darned good fellow. A hard worker on the basketball court as well as his studies. Often called "Bill" but what difference does a name make?

WILLIAM O. HECHT

Bill or Fred

12 Norwood Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Captain Class Besketball, 1927.

Another hard worker with the basketball team and his studies. We hear the "O" stands for "Otto." An excellent substitute for "Fred." We don't know which one he is either but we all like him.

CHARLES F. HOOPER

Hoop

144 Central Avenue, East Hartford, Conn.

Class Baseball, 1926.

He used to have a mustache but they shaved it off. "Charlie" is a hard worker, rather quiet but he'll get there without doubt. He's our professional Sherlock Holmes.

HERMAN WILLIAM JOHNSON

Hoim

380 Woodstock Avenue, Stratford, Conn.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Manager Class Baseball, 1927; Manager Class Soccer, 1927.

"Hoim," the Institute's leading comedian, is also one of the best class athletes. It is rumored that he even talks in his sleep. "Where are you and Jake going, Hoim?" Good in his work but why did he ever leave the stage? And can he hang paper? Oh boy!

CHARLES S. KAWECKY

150-153 Fisher Avenue, South Jamaica, L. I.

Class Track, 1927.

He doesn't do much besides work, but he does that right. Why do they always pick on him in Mechanics? Mr. Pope's model student.

HARRY J. LAPE

Harry

107 Cleveland Avenue, Endicott, N. Y.

Oh boy, what questions. We think Mr. Price must be his consulting engineer. Good in his work and a backer of social and athletic events. "The man with the snappy suspenders."

DON R. LUIS

Don

Monroe, N. Y.

Class Treasurer, 1926-1927.

Boy! How he can handle the dues. "She's down by the main entrance, Don." He has a lot of trouble getting his name speiled correctly but he does neat work with the ladies and design problems.

HOMER W. MANCK

Monque

1854A Pacific Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Class Basketball, 1926-1927.

Author of Professor Manck's Mechanic's Notebook Encyclopedia, 24 Volumes. We will never forget "Monque" the fluted soccer player.

MILES H. MANN

Miles

121 Newton Street, Hartford, Conn.

Captain Class Swimming, 1926; Life Saving, 1926; Social Committee, 1927.

Popular with the opposite sex, in fact he leaves us "Miles" behind. He is the "Mann" that can run the social events. It is said that he loves his work. Like Kelley does.

JACOB MAYERJAK

Jake

27 Prescott Street, Torrington, Conn.

Varsity Baseball, 1926; Class Baseball, 1927.

Bendy legged but straight as a die.

"Towering far above his neighbors," in disposition as well as height. A good worker in design and a high class carpenter's helper.

HAROLD J. McLELAND

Mack

345 Eighty-second Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1927; Class Swimming, 1926.

It is rumored that he is the boy wonder pianist, but he's wise enough to keep it to himself. A fine fellow and well liked by his classmates. He cuts deep at fencing.

ALEXANDER G. MILLER

Class Bowling, 1926-1927; Class Pool, 1927; Class Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Track, 1927.

He mixes work with bowling and pool and does favorably with both.

HAROLD C. NELSON

Nellie

277 Rocky Hill Avenue, New Britian, Conn.

Class President, 1926; Class Vice-President, 1927; Class Baseball, 1926; Class Basketball, 1926-1927; Class Track, 1927; Class Soccer, 1927; Class Bowling, 1926-1927; Manager Bowling, 1927.

"Nellie" is an all around good fellow with an ever-ready smile and nerve racking laugh. A real hard worker. One of the best class athletes, perhaps because he has red hair.

112

Pratfonia, 1927

RALPH C. PARKER

Park

7 Brown Street, Norwich, Conn.

Class Secretary, 1927; Social Committee, 1926-1927.

Consistent and well liked. The quiet deep thinking boy from Norwich. "Who's taking you to the basketball game to-night, Park?" A mean man with the ladies.

Apostle Paul

15 Kenmore Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our classical piano player. A philosopher and student of the fourth dimension. Quiet, but there with the goods. Another one of our fencers.

WALTER G. PEDERSEN

60 Hunting Street, Bridgeport, Conn.

Varsity Basketball, 1926-1927; Varsity Baseball, 1926-1927; Class Soccer, 1927.

One of our varsity basketball men. Our best all around athlete. He spells his name with a "sen," but it's "son" to us.

LE ROY A. PERRY

Perry

121 Seventy-eighth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Yes sir, I did it all myself." Although he goes his own way, he takes an interest in his work and gets there.

JOHN L. RAYNOR

Raynor

Nassau Avenue, Islip, Long Island

Another conscientious worker. He has a laugh that can't be duplicated. Mr. Price's laboratory mechanic. Although he commutes he's there before the clock strikes nine. The man with the wonder Dodge.

Prattonia, 1927

HOWARD W. SMALLEY

Howie

8534 104th Street, Richmond Hill, N. Y.

Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Captain Class Soccer, 1927.

"The Butter and Egg Man," who delivers in a Chrysler. Our "Corner kick" specialist in Soccer. A neat designer and Bogart's friend.

RAYMOND B. STOCK

Ray

3220 Forty-seventh Street, Long Island City, L. I.

Captain Class Tennis, 1926; Class Tennis, 1927.

"Odds or even?" Carfare home. An upholder of the traditions of "Sleepy Hollow." "Roll over, Ray." A good draftsman who knows what it's all about.

JAMES WHITFORD, JR.

Jimmy

188 College Avenue, West New Brighton, N. Y.

Class Tennis, 1926-1927; Class Soccer, 1926-1927; Chairman Class Athletics, 1927; Manager Class Tennis, 1927.

"Jimmy Jr." is one of Johnson's right hand men. He may be short but we have a tall estimation of him. It is said that he is a whiz with the "Slip stick." Too bad he comes from Staten Island.

ARCHITECTS I,

Heretofore the first year Architectural classes have been in the habit of maintaining a very high and rigid precedent set by the pioneers of the department. The class of '28 has found and is leaving an unblemished escutcheon to the incoming class of '29. (Do not mistake our self-esteem as immodesty. The instructors are tickled with us. Ask Mr. Bogart—he knows.) Our class has even gone a notch better than its predecessors in its contributions in the way of scholarship and athletics.

Mr. Pope has been spending an unusual amount of time with us, and has been extending extra help to the needy, so that the entire class has been able to pull through with flourishing colors. We feel sure that Mr. Pope's time and efforts are well invested and will some day draw 100% interest. We are Mr. Bogart's pet class. In fact, he said that we have been his best Mathematics and English class this year. (Laugh that off.) The boys are so used to getting "x" from Wentworth that they can hardly believe a hen lays 'em. We know that Mr. Price is waiting for our class to be graduated before he declares that we have been his brightest students. He's afraid of shocking our modesty by disclosing aforementioned too soon. Mr. Petersen has been trying, not entirely in vain, to inculate an artistic sense, and with Mr. Boulware around helping us, we became artists in a very short while (with a strange prevalence of the Boulwarian technique).

The class of '28 is both versatile and "voice-atile." While the former half is doing its stuff on the soccer field or basketball court, the latter half is yelling like a veteran cheering squad. The class has contributed six stalwarts to the soccer combination, "Red" Hawley, "Zeke" Zykwicz, John Jackson, George Wood, Gus Scurlock and Charlie Dellone. These boys will probably comprise the nucleus for next year's team. Four of the first year men have found berths with the class quintet, Clarence Henry, Frany Dayton, Bob DeGroat and "Andy" Andrus. If you should care to know the personnel of the cheering squad, look up the remainder of the class.

The class of '28 is prepared to embark on its second year. Its record is clean and its position enviable. The school will hear more from us and about us next year.

GENERAL ART III, 1927

Glancing backward on our initiation into Pratt, our first recollection is becoming lost in an enormous mass of humanity on the fourth floor, and feeling sort of unnecessary; that was 1924. The next is a recollection of the orchestra that was immediately formed, Oh, yes! we have talent in our class The mad syncopations of this group has continued to keep us in good spirits in spite of the loss of one of its best members; he left Pratt and took charge of the Hudson River Day Line.

For three years the girls have been inseparably connected with the activities of the Paletteers and the boys with the Artsmen and the class history is their history.

It is with great pleasure that we look back on our stay here. Our technical skill became greater and greater, from an awkward stage we have now reached the point where technical equipment is ours, and we can face a cruel and cold world with confidence, backed by the reputation of our Alma Mater.

Not only have we assumed a professional attitude through the efforts of our instructors but also we give to the world our Joe: Technical virtuoso of the class of 1927. With this gift our history closes.

LILLIE BERG, Vice-President

JOHN H. BARKER, President SAM. NIESENSON, Secretary and Treasurer

NINA ABRECHT

Neen

9026 144th Place, Jamaica, L. I.

The whistling songster of classic extracts. She has shown unusual advancement in her sojourn at Pratt. Has a gift for losing brushes.

JOHN H. BARKER

216 Main Street, Torrington, Conn.

Prattonia Representative, 1927; Artsman Representative, 1926; Artsman Soccer, 1925; Varsity Tennis, 1926-1927; Class President, 1927; Class Treasurer, 1926; Artsman Treasurer, 1927

Father of our class. "Say, listen, fellows!"

HERMAN E. BARTEL

562 West 148th Street, New York City

Artsman; Educational Committee.

Has artistic taste with a preference for Rembrandt. A corking commercial artist.

LILLIE BERG

Lil

54 Linden Boulevard, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Has an astounding capacity for unlimited productions of fascinating flappers not to mention her other works of art. And she is as good natured as she is talented.

MILTON D. BIRCH

29 Ridge Street, White Plains, N. Y.

Track, 1925; Class President, 1926; Vice-President, 1925.

"Dot's nize—dunt fight!" A glutton for work when the spirit moves.

MARIE BOMMER

Sophie

352 Clermont Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paletteers, 1926-1927; Associate Editor Prattonia, 1926.

The travelingest girl in Pratt. Very active in school affairs. All know her water colors, which have been frequently exhibited in New York.

CLIFFORD N. BROWN

240 Lark Street, Albany, N. Y.

"I cannot check my girlish blush; I blush again."

ADELE CONTENT

Adle

543 Eighty-first Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our fashion representative, not only in spirit but in person and little escapes her discerning glance.

BESSIE EISENBURG

2257 Seventy-ninth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Our young idealist, naive and sincere, aspires to great heights and then is distressed because her ideal is not achieved in a twinkle. She will inevitably attain the goal.

ERNESTINE FEINBERG

Ernie

104 West 119th Street, New York City

Paletteers, 1926-1927.

Nize baby, come, eat up all the question marks.

Prattonia, 1927

REGINA GAY

Reggie

14 Toledo Street, Elmhurst, N. Y.

Is happiest when out door sketching, but as her cognomen signifies she is cheerful in all kinds of weather. She is one of the fortunate few that still believe in Santa Claus and fairies.

WALTER O. GREEN

2 Tremont Street, Hartford, Conn.

Art Editor Prattonia, 1927; Vice-President Artsmen, 1927; President Men's Club, 1927.

Walter served as Art Editor of Prattonia, being the first in that capacity to really have this book printed and distributed before commencement (or at least so he says). When art director of some magazine remember that we were once classmates.

JOHN C. HARE

512 Westminster Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Third of a line of craftsmen who have and still are distinguishing themselves in the field or art; and most ably is he doing his share in perpetuating the name and its reputation.

JAMES G. HEFFERNAN

409 Court Street, Mechanicsville, N. Y.

Prattonia Representative, 1926.

When for the sake of a noble principle he was drawn into conversation we first realized his great versatility. In competitions inside and out of school his individuality of idea and execution placed his name repeatedly among the victorious.

THOMAS C. HURLEY

4 Lawn Avenue, Oneonta, N. Y.

Artsman; Basketball, 1925-1926-1927; Baseball, 1925-1926-1927; Tennis, 1925-1926-1927.

During his three years at Pratt he has probably lived through three times that of the average student. A very helpful classmate; manager de Club Ryerson; a genuine athlete; and still found time for social diversion.

PAUL A. KIENTZ

2471 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

In work and play the same conquering spirit; as an artist a most diligent worker; on the field of sport, an everlasting endeavor to overcome obstacles. Paul is there "By Crackie!"

DORIS KING

Kinkee

Chipman, New Brunswick, Canada.

King high, Canada dry, plenty of ginger and nothing "ales"

Landing Road, Little Neck, N. Y.

Artsman Baseball, 1925-1926; Soccer, 1925-1926-1927; Track, 1925-1926.

He is Musial's roommate but has a fine sense of humor.

ANN A. C. LEVOFF

Orphan Annie

561 Caldwell Avenue, New York City

Dainty little aristocrat from the land of the Cossacks, who loves her own way. Her botanical knowledge extends chiefly to "palms" and her lunch hour from nine to four.

G. LOUISE LIND

Ouisi

18 Vanderbilt Road, West Hartford, Conn.

One with high ideals and ability to reach them.

NATHAN MACHTEY

74 Hawthorne Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y.

One of our young intellectuals. An expert psychoartist as well as an accomplished painter.

A. MORTON MATHEWS

2106 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Class President, 1925; Artsman Representative, 1925; Secretary and Treasurer Student Council, 1925; Chairman Educational Committee, 1927.

Left the field of finance to study art. He is one of the big men of the school, and will, we expect, be one of the biggest men in the profession. Musial's sparring partner.

ELSIE E. MINOR

Squeedunk

160 North Main Street, West Hartford, Conn.

The only girl in the class who believes in the old adage, "silence is golden," and sticks to it.

ALICE B. MONTGOMERY

Alicia

596 South Curtis Avenue, Littleton, Colo.

The artist from the open spaces with the "Poetex" inspiration.

JOSEPH MUSIAL

10 Lincoln Street, Yonkers, N. Y.

Treasurer, 1927; Soccer Manager, 1926-1927; Baseball, 1925-1926-1927.

His humor has brought many a laugh from the empty classroom. Combined with his ability to cartoon, some day he will make the whole world laugh; Mathews included. Very close to Mathews aphabetically.

SAMUEL NISENSON

654 Linden Boulevard, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsman Baseball, 1926-1927; Soccer, 1925-1926-1927; Tennis, 1926-1927.

Helpful Sam, the professional man. An artist from Commercial.

MARION A. NOYES

Maryanor

1623 South Third Street, Terre Haute, Ind.

As her name implies, is merry—and noise draws her like a magnet.

JOSEPH NUSSDORF

211 East Houston Street, New York City

Mural painter. Murals including white wash or any other medium. Nymphs a specialty. Estimates cheerfully given.

ROBERT E. PATRICK

17 Gillespie Street, Schenectady, N. Y.

We learned about women from Bob!

RICHARD A. B. PATTON

945 Park Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Swimming, 1925; Publicity Committee, 1925-1927.

When Dick isn't acting as Mr. Petersen's right hand man he's substituting for his left. We expect to hear from him later. Probably over the radio.

ELEANOR F. PECK

Felix

231 Clermont Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The advocate of modern art which she seems to think will eventually assert itself. She's just read "Behaviorism," but still has a vestage of a sense of humor left.

ALFRED S. PIANE

525 Eighty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsman Educational Committee, 1927.

Breathes there a man With soul so dead Who never to himself hath said, "I guess I'll have a fried ham sandwich."

MARJORIE RAEDER

Margie

140 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The girl with the artistic hands, and temperament, and passion for anything green and purple.

LILYAN R. REIFE

Teddy

321 Warburton Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y.

Our Teddy—bear in mind she is pretty good—with a weakness for skulls, dragons and morgues.

ANN SCOBORIA

Skib

456 Eighty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Temperamental Ann. Her fast developing individuality promises a decorative future.

JACK R. SCHRIEVER

11123 196th Street, Hollis, N. Y.

Class Secretary, 1926.

How he glistens through his rust. My work is done; let me sleep. $\ensuremath{\text{-}}$

ELIZABETH SMITH

Smitty

81 State Street, Far Rockaway, N. Y.

Life and letters of Elizabeth Smith—mostly letters. She's devilishly angelic, a good mixer with a contagious giggle. Now it's time for a glass of milk.

GRACE F. SOWASH

539 West Fourth Street, New York City

Grace—all that her name implies. How does she manage it? Always spotless and the rest of us covered with paint.

HUGO O. STEVENS

9 East Thirty-ninth Street, New York City

In his body lies the strength to carry out his own convictions.

MAURICE I. STOKES

80 Van Ness Place, New York City

He is not of large proportions but full of honor, intelligence, and is a willing worker. None named him but to praise him.

MARVIN S. STRAUSS

839 Fox Street, Bronx, New York City

Artsman Baseball, 1925-1926-1927; Soccer, 1925-1926-1927; Track, 1925-1927; Boxing, 1925; Pool, 1925-1926-1927.

Our Athlete. Strauss, a mighty man was he with arms like iron bands.

MARY McL. WELBURN

Mary Mac

726 Wilson Boulevard, Ballstan, Va.

A quiet industrious Miss from the Old Dominion, whose recreation is "Miles" from Connecticut.

DOROTHY WHITAKER

Dot

372 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A sincere thoughtful worker, and a friend indeed. She always has a trip in mind, for water colors sake.

F. ALVIN ZIMMERLI

Al, Zim

134 Warrick Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Artsmen President, 1926-1927; Artsmen Basketball, 1925-1926-1927; Artsmen Baseball, 1924-1925-1926-1927.

Don't forget the meeting, fellows!

GENERAL ART II

With renewed ambition we returned to Pratt. Our talent in Art, undiscovered last year, has developed and taken its rightful place along with our other gifted ones.

Through the earnest endeavors of our worthy instructors, we have acquired a deeper and more sincere conception of Art's true significance.

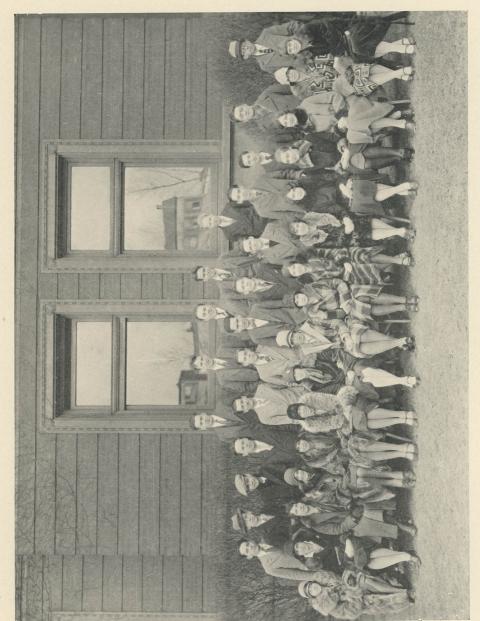

Modesty bids us, let others sing our praises.

One year more awaits us, in which we intend to carry still further, the preparation of our life work.

THE CLASS OF '29, GENERAL ART!

Composition:

A heterogeneous collection of scholars and gentlemen (having the traditional preference in the color of hair), with a slight dash of hilarious wise-crackers from Hartford, Conn.

Cast and Portrait:

Cast in the image of men they decided nevertheless, to become artists. A composite portrait would reveal a very pleasant, beamingly hopeful, decidedly capable young man. The only cloud marring the delightfully sunny vista of the future that he gazes upon is the problem;—where in the world is he going to get more worlds to conquer?

Still Life:

Certainly not. This is the speediest aggregation of members of the younger generation ever assembled.

Perspective:

Futuristic in conception; all angles of human nature are visible here; all viewpoints are represented, both figurative and literal. The range of viewpoints culminates grandly in the aerial perspective obtained by Dowkontt who surveys the surrounding terrain serenely from the upper reaches of the atmosphere.

Design:

Marvelous in its wealth of colorful detail, with one motive prevailing—the designs they all have on Fame, the elusive Will-o-the-Whisp, bubble or what have you. Nor do they plan to let Fortune beckon unheeded, though that, of course, is a very minor consideration.

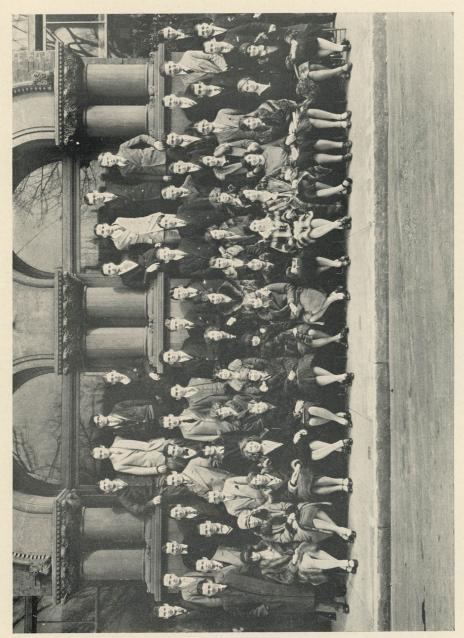

Well, Lor' bless 'em all, and may they all get "A+'s" on their report cards.

Ah, men!

THE ARTSMEN ASSOCIATION

The Artsmen Society, composed of the men of the School of Fine and Applied Arts, was organized in 1922 for the purpose of broadening the contacts of its members with the professional world of art, and of supporting its athletes on the field of sport, morally and financially. Steadily growing with these two worthy activities has been a strong spirit of good fellowship and unity among the men of the school.

The Educational Committee under the leadership of Morton Mathews deserves great credit for the excellent list of speakers and exhibitions brought to the Artsmen. This year's program excels that of any previous year. More than a dozen leaders in the fields of art came to the Institute and met the Artsmen in either informal conferences, a lecture or a demonstration with the palette and brush.

The Panel of Honor in the corridor on the fourth floor of the School now holds the names of more than thirty prominent painters, illustrators, designers and lecturers who have given their time and knowledge freely to the Artsmen. Usually an exhibition of the work of each speaker preceded his visit to the School.

Mr. Valentine's Social Committee planned two successful social events—the Fall Get-Together and the Witches' Dance.

The George D. Bartlett-Artsmen scholarship stands as a permanent record of the friendliness typical of Mr. Bartlett.

The second Artsmen Alumni exhibition held in the Institute Art Gallery was a fitting climax for an eventful year. It was the fine success of the first show with many new features and exhibitors.

The school year just closing may be reviewed as one of active, progressive programs, due to the interest shown by the Officers and Committee Chairmen.

THE PALETTEERS

In January, 1926, the girls of the Art School organized the club known as the Paletteers. Although only in its second year, much has been accomplished.

Our first speaker of the year was Miss Alice Fitts, formerly director of the Kindergarten School. Just before Christmas vacation, the Paletteers gave a tea at the Women's Club, at which Mrs. Perry, Miss Everest, and Miss Herrick poured. Miss Neysa McMien was the guest of honor on this occasion. The schedule of speakers for the year included Lurelle Guild, Charles Chapman, Norman Bell Geddes, Charles Dana Gibson, Dean Cornwell, W. T. Benda, and John La Gatta. We were able to secure exhibitions of the work of most of these artists.

The Spring Carnival, given at the end of the second semester, was a novel and very colorful affair. Everyone entered into the spirit of the carnival and contributed to its success.

The Paleteers are also responsible for the organization of the girls' fencing class which has aroused a tremendous amount of enthusiasm. By next year each class will boast a fencing team and we look forward to inter-class rivalry in that sport.

We hope that the Paletteers may continue their progress and promote that feeling of good fellowship which is so important a factor in School life.

NORMAL ART III

Pratt has admitted us, gazed at us, nodded its head and sighed. We blew in. We upset the new three year course by claiming superior knowledge and attempted to do the work in two years. The breeze that blew us in stayed with us and we've been blowing ever since.

Our social life began while we were yet young. Both parties legally prescribed by the faculty, and those illegitimately staged in class were enjoyed by all. Our heads were held unusually high when one of our number took a days's vacation to help the Crown Prince of Sweden land in New York.

The second year produced more rush, even less leisure and a division of forces into sections A and B. Our initiation into the complex art of teaching took up our hitherto valued Saturday mornings, but the work proved interesting and the pupils both eager and amusing. In October we, in collaboration with the Junior Class, gave a Hallowe'en Party for the incoming Normal students. It seemed to us a big success. The guests may speak for themselves. More arduous labor ensued and then the "Reign of Terror" while we feverishly compiled Mrs. Shaurman's Notebooks, submitted on the Eve of Christmas vacation.

After Christmas came our work with Miss Cornell at the museum and our ardent clay slinging in Mrs. Allen's Class. We had a "Kid Party" at the Women's Club. New officers were elected and our pictures were taken for Prattonia. We began to feel old. Some of us even laid away our toys. Now for Mrs. Shaurmans' folio and the dreaded course of study. Our breath comes pantingly; we drag one foot after the other, but still we clamber on toward the goal and our final achievement—a Pratt diploma.

NORMAL II

And it came to pass in the fall of the year of 1926, there gathered together a band who had been deemed acceptable in the eyes of the high chieftains of Pratt.

And in that band were some who were upon home ground, but there were many who were from afar—yea, men from the mellowness of the Golden West, from harsh New England's coast, who had journeyed long hours for the fame and repute of Pratt so far spread and glorious. And in this band were some who had delved into books of learning in collegiate circles, some who had led wide-eyed youth into the paths of knowledge, some who were still wide-eyed youth, some who had already tarried awhile in Prattonian halls, but all, no matter what their training, had proven worthy to be of the chosen number. The class who had gone ahead welcomed these strangers graciously and they were grateful.

And after a number of days, leaders were chosen to guide the faltering footsteps of this little band.

And under their guidance the band flourished and gained knowledge, keeness of eye and accuracy of arm, and at the first mile stone no member was dropped by the wayside for the selection had been wise.—Selah!

NORMAL ART, 1929

With a rush and a bang the freshmen Normals entered Pratt. We came from all over this good old U. S. A., with one main purpose in view—namely to become Fine Art teachers. The first couple of weeks were spent in getting acquainted with our neighbors, our work, and instructors. This of course was pleasant and life seemed fairly easy until we discovered that there was some real hard work before us.

Our first social affair of the season was given to us by the Seniors in the form of a Hallowe'en Party. This was a most delightful occasion.

We are very proud of our athletic members, particularly those on the Volley Ball and Basketball teams. They did splendid work and brought honor to our class by winning their letters.

Our officers for the year are: Charles D. Price, President; Lydia Blecka, Vice-President; and Frances M. Jersey, Secretary and Treasurer. In Mr. Price we have found an enthusiastic and efficient president, who encourages each one of us to do our best.

This would not be complete without a word of appreciation to our splendid corps of instructors and our supervisor, Miss Hyde, who holds ever before us the shining goal of success.

OF TRUE TO YOUR WORK TAND YOU WORK WILL TRUE TO YOU

YOUR WORK AND YOUR WORK WILBE TRUE TO YOU

COSTUME ILLUSTRATION, 1927

Three years, golden and untenable as slipping sand, have sifted through the shimmering hour-glass Time holds in trust. A few years in which to have taken of knowledge, of power, of inspiration, and in which to have given our utmost in devotion, in allegiance, and accomplishment in return.

Three years is not a long time, held gently in the cupped palm of an aeon—not more, perhaps, than a measure in the symphonic score of the infinite. Yet if, in the brief space of time, an ideal is formed, a friendship made, a service given, who can suppose it does not add its weight in the balance of eternity?......

As a class, we have entered enthusiastically into social events, competitions, and all activities pertaining to school life, and we feel that we have gained much more than the knowledge of the essentials of an Art education which we now strive to develop. We owe a large measure of gratitude to our instructors for their guidance, inspiration, and patience with our inevitable shortcomings!

Of what we have given, let memories of us affirm; of what we carry away with us, may our spirits attest, that there may burn in the crucible of each, a clearer, whiter flame; a cleaner, straighter ideal, and a more divine understanding.

Frivolity Review, 1; Paletteer's Representative, 3; Crown and Spade Club.

Understanding, prismatic, chic.

Possessor of a most endearing faculty—that of always laughing at other people's wise cracks. An all 'round good sport.

COSTUME ILLUSTRATION II

Back again, and half of our time here at Pratt now over. The Costume Illustration Class of 1928 seems to have settled down to a congenial and hard (?) working group of girls. Not so hard working however, that we overlook any good times coming our way. Not that!

As a class, our social activities started with an informal party given in honor of the first year Costume girls and the Architects. It is whispered that a good time was had by all. Then in February, came the Valentine Dance in the gym, of which we were justly proud. Just think—it was a remarkable success, financially and otherwise, thereby proving that artists may have business ability.

The time has come when our fame seems to be spreading abroad. We have crashed into the public press several times. A number of papers carried pictures of our girls at work on their designs for dresses based on sky-scrapers. These sketches caused considerable comment at the Architectural and Allied Arts Exposition in February at the Grand Central Palace. Then too, one of the girls in our class submitted the winning poster used to advertise the Queen Titania's Palace Exhibit from the Sesqui-centennial. And of course the Wanamaker Fashion Show! While a classmate, Faye Whitney, was the only Art School girl winning a prize, there were many very effective costumes designed and worn by our members.

Besides all this, the work of our class is well represented in the research plates hung in the Brooklyn Museum at the special request of Mr. Culen.

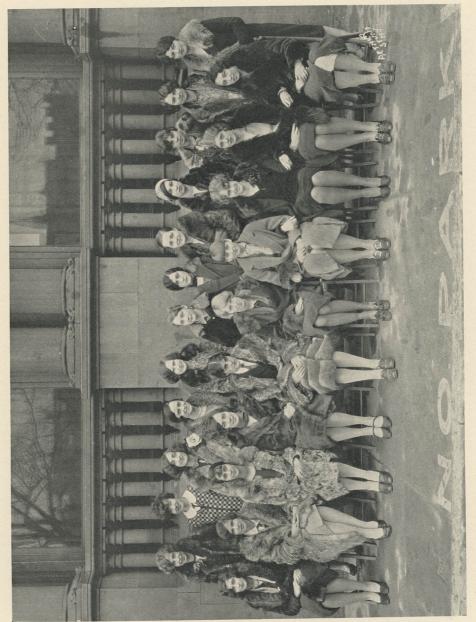

These small triumphs, combined with the kindly encouragement offered by our instructors, has helped to offset that hollow feeling experienced when we realize that we still have to learn before we may consider ourselves real honest-to-goodness artists.

COSTUME ILLUSTRATION I, 1929

Hello everybody, the new Costume Illustration Class wants a few minutes of your attention. We are all very glad we have come to Pratt after many years of wishing and hoping. The students are so very kind and pleasant to us here that we know our three years will fly too quickly.

Our trip to the Metropolitan Museum a few weeks ago was an enjoyable one. Now we're struggling to modernize the Egyptian designs we found there. Some of them give Miss Herrick a laugh because of their extreme originality, but we're getting there, so have patience.

Miss Everest seems to be quite delighted with the results of our efforts in making the fairy story strips, for she shows them to nearly all the visitors. We are very proud of them ourselves because, at last, we have something definite to show for the months we've been here.

Our class has had the reputation of being the dullest and slowest in the school, but somebody has apparently misjudged us. We are getting used to some of those artistic (?) temperaments (they may as well be called artistic) besides cultivating some of our own. Nevertheless, watch us in the future.

INTERIOR DESIGN, 1927

With the coming of June, the roses, and the time when we think of the "ole swimmin' hole," there also comes the day when we say good-bye to Pratt and the dear friends we have found there.

The graduating class of 1927 in Design, has certainly enjoyed and appreciated the wonderful opportunities offered in that course. Under the supervision of Mr. Pratt, Miss Everest, Mr. Guptill, Miss Cother, Mr. Hamann, Mr. Longyear, Mr. Pope, Miss Webb, Mr. Loeffler and Mr. Moglia, we feel that there has been nothing lacking. The splendid co-operation they have given us surely ought to make our path in life more smooth. Mr. Moglia, who comes to us fresh from the field of battle, has afforded us the opportunity of studying conditions we will meet in Interior Decoration.

With the introduction of the three year course that Mr. Perry has very thoughtfully provided, we hope to see wonderful results from our successors.

We pass to you, Class of '28, the task of bettering our record and keeping the slate clean.

Dunt esk who wrote this poem
Or what it's all about,
For I've learned to use my lungs
And now I'am going to shout.

Now I may change my meter, My rhymes won't be so hot, But just sit still and listen And you may learn a lot.

In a way, this is a record
Of all that's gone and past,
We'll resurrect what we have done
Since September twenty-seventh last.

New faces we have seen a plenty,
Old faces we have missed;
(But those that I have missed the most Are those that I once kissed).

We gave a grand Class Party,
The eats we had were swell;
There's lots of things that happened there
That we will never tell!

A sweet young lady in our class
Decided she would marry;
We sometimes wonder at her choice,
She should have taken Harry.

Thus endeth all our doings,
So say we one and all.
We've done our duty by you,
Until we meet next Fall.

GAL TO YOU TANK WORK TRUE

INTERIOR DESIGN I, 1929

Everybody loves a lover; that's why we love ourselves! We do get along splendidly with each other—though you wouldn't think so to hear our vociferous "pipe down's"—and have a jolly time in spite of the opposition of the more stable and serious-minded second-years.

If you want diversity of character, appearance, and taste, just come to visit us. We have every known sort of temperament, except moroseness and crabbiness. We have real men, not effeminate prudes, and our girls are ladies to the nth degree. With all our budding geniuses and our sprouting mustaches, we'll be a gorgeous landscape before long!

With all our fun and foolishness, we have done a lot of real work and expect to progress nicely in our chosen profession; for, in spite of some opinions we've heard to the contrary, we think our work fairly good for beginners. The teachers seem to agree with us too, for not one of our thirty-two students failed a single subject—which is an almost unprecedented record.

Our several trips, one to the Brooklyn Museum, one to the Roman Bronze Works, and one to the Metropolitan Museum, have been most instructive and helpful. We appreciate the kindness of our various instructors in helping us to come in contract with and form an appreciation for worthwhile things.

As true Artsmen and Paletteers, we are always on the lookout for beauty, both in visible things and in character. It is our most cherished desire to find beauty and to help others to find it—for this purpose we are here.

A REAL SPORT

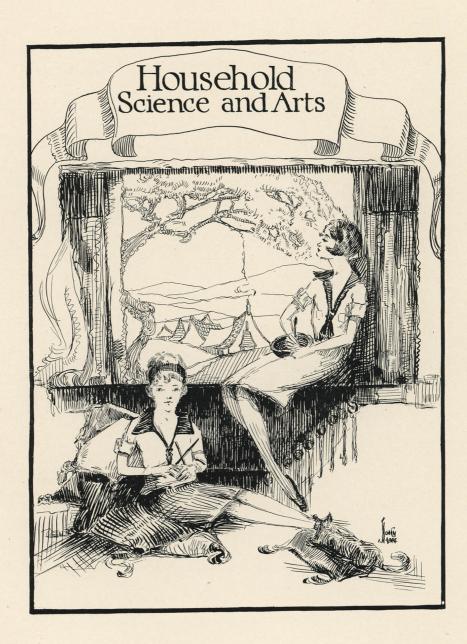

Did you ever feel blue and downcast, And everything seemed all wrong, But you just had to keep on a smilin', And go on a singin' a song?

Was your heart ever pretty nigh breakin', And you just about to give in, But you bravely squared up your shoulders And kept on a forcin' a grin?

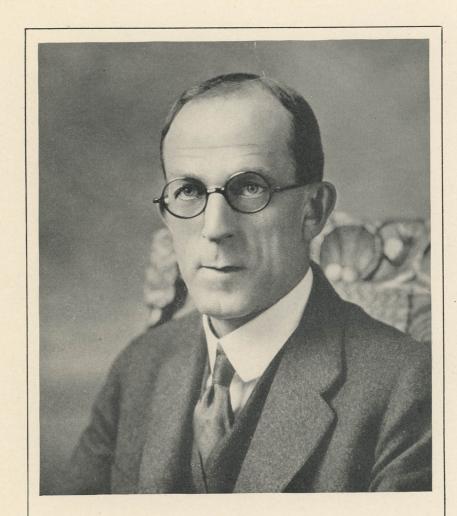

Were your eyes ever brimmed full of tear drops,
But your pluckiest grit held them in?
If so, you're a true sport, dear comrade,
And I give you my word, you will win!

SENIOR DIETETICS, 1927

The history of the Dietetics '27 class would be long and varied if we were allowed unlimited space. We went through the usual junior routine last year, getting acquainted with books, instructors, gym, and of course the lunch room which for a long time was, to most of us, rather a sad weekly event. Of course, we had the usual round of social affairs such as the Senior-Junior Tea, not forgetting the class tea which enabled us to be able to give a fair sum of money to the Home Economics Club. When June came around we scattered to all different sections to do our hospital training, a time which few will forget. Coming back in October we were all bubbling over with the desire to relate our different experiences which had occured during our hospital life. Once more we started our general routine of classes. Our first social function was a baby party given to the Juniors and then a very pleasant supper and entertainment was given to us. We now hope to put over a class play as well as a dance later on in the spring.

Now that our time at Pratt is drawing to a close we feel that the many friends we have made, the knowledge we have acquired, and good times we have had during our two years will be things that will always remain as happy memories.

JUNIOR DIETETICS, 1928

Tuesday, September 28, 1926, appeared on the calendar as any ordinary day, but it will soon be renowned in the Field of Dietetics, for on that day sixty of us entered Pratt Institute aiming to become world famed dietetians.

We were formally welcomed by our Director, Mr. Howe, and our Supervisor, Miss Hollaway, at the H. S. and A. Department conference. We then one after another were introduced to our teachers and subjects, finding, as we trailed from the Chemistry Laboratory, on the top floor, to the Lunchroom, in the basement, that we certainly had a jolly set of instructors.

As "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" we heartily entered into athletics, adding many stars to the Hockey, Tennis, Basketball and Swimming teams. In our Gym work we proved our good sportsmanship by not being afraid to "try anything once."

Early in the year we held a class meeting and as Lois Stevens and Florence Mattison were out of the room and couldn't defend themselves we elected them President and Vice-President respectively. We noticed that Alice Whitfield always carried a fountain pen, so she became Secretary. And as Celia Miller had a large pocket book we thought she'd make a good Treasurer!

We are all of the same opinion that this has been a busy though happy year and are already planning and looking forward to our next year's work.

INSTITUTIONAL MANAGEMENT, 1927

Our first impressions of Pratt were worried expressions, long hours of standing, and principally one large wonder if we would ever, ever make good. The worried expressions were due to the arithmetic and psychology tests.... the long hours of standing became an old story. But the question of whether we will make good remains to be solved.

We soon became acclimated, and became so hardened that we turned our thoughts to the social. A tea was given for the outgoing class and as a final proof of our knowledge gained in serving, we gave a Christmas tea for the faculty of the H. S. and A.

Now we are going forth—to pay our great debt to Pratt. We have so much to live up to in the fine reputation of those who have gone before, that it is overwhelming. But we will try our best—be faithful to the fine ideals of Pratt—and in the end, we hope we will be a credit to our year at Pratt.

HOMEMAKING, 1927

History is the relation of past events. As a group, we, the Home-makers, have had little past so have little history. We have been at Pratt a shorter time than the other classes, spend less time there than most and are unfortunately a bit out of touch with Pratt social life since we work while others play and play while they work.

To return to History, though. History is the story of the struggle of man for food, clothing and shelter. In a way we are making history, for all our work teaches us to get these three necessary things.

Perhaps we can see with one accord that food is the most important factor. That is the Homemaker's first thought at Pratt. We learn to buy food economically, cook it delectably, and serve it attractively with the inspiration and co-operation of Miss Condit and Mrs. Haugh. We do not stop there, though, for we very speedily learned how to eat the food without the direction of anyone in particular.

Next comes clothing. Miss McKee and Mrs. Evans not only struggle to teach us how to make clothes but Mrs. Evans gives us fascinating lectures on how to buy materials, how to use them for clothes, and what sort of clothes we should wear to "Capitalize our Best Features."

And then we learn about shelter. Miss Webb by interesting lectures and museum trips shows us how homes should be built and furnished, in an artistic and practical way. In a house of our own at 220 Willoughby Avenue, we are taught to scrub and polish.

For only a short time the importance of training for homemaking, as for any vocation, has been recognized as necessary. Pratt Institute in accordance with its progressive program, saw that the thinking girls, of this our emancipated era, would welcome such an opportunity —and here we are!

DRESS DESIGN, 1927

In September, it was back to Pratt again for many of us; with new faces and a few greenhorns in our midst. Most of the work was Greek to us although we called it designing.

There was Mrs. Evans and her "research," Miss Morgan and her water color washes that we tried in vain to put on evenly, Miss Zick standing staunchly between us and the perils of black chalk, and Miss Harman's infallible taste guiding us through the maze of fads and foolish fancies.

With such guides some day we hope to emerge as designers, like the butterfly from the chrysalis.

The high point of interest was the Wanamaker Fashion Show, where we proved the "worth of the pudding." From our class about seventy costumes passed before the judges.

But we are "top-hole" in play as well as in work, being represented in Basketball and carrying away the H. S. and A. Volley Ball championship.

The instructors in the H. S. and A. School held a reception delightfully entertaining us with stunts and impersonations, even to animated dress forms.

Our friendships and the fine spirit of mutual interests and aspirations will lead us far, even though the road to our goal is wide and the distractions are many.

TRADE DRESSMAKING, 1927

September 27, 1927, found a hundred ambitious young people taking the examinations for entrance to this department of the school. Those who were successful have found themselves among congenial associates, both students and teachers. We find the work very interesting, as well as instructive.

Up to this time we have been doing our regular class problems and have come across many interesting instances. The first term of this year we had first principles of design. Now it is embroidery, and we are looking forward to a still more successful course of design our last term.

The most exciting period of our term is almost here. It is the Wanamaker Fashion Show, and everyone is working hard, and looking forward to the experience as one that will be remembered as long as we live.

After this we shall resume our work and strive toward the end of our course which will be the beginning of our lives in the wide, wide world.

TRADE MILLINERY, 1927

On September 28, 1926, three shy girls came to Pratt Institute to take the entrance examination in Millinery. When the instructor saw that we were only three, she said we could commence our term without taking the examination.

The next day we began our course, and there being only three of us we became acquainted within a short while, and the work became a great pleasure.

Our instructor, Mrs. Garrett, made the work very pleasant and easy by her detailed explanation of the intricacies of millinery.

Our class has made great progress. During the past couple of months the work turned out has been wonderful, especially the making of wire frames which any millinery student dreads.

Since our organizing on September 29th, we have grown from three members to five and we are still growing strong.

Our "Kitty Klub" is independent of Federal and State supervision, free from the worries of income tax, labor unions and the World Court. Dividends declared spasmodically, as opportunity and good fortune rush to our rescue. We are a hopeful crew; believe in Santa Claus, Pratt Institute, love, and everything worthwhile.

MILLINERY DESIGN, 1927

The 29th of September, 1926, marked the beginning of a successful class of Millinery Designers under the skillful guidance of Miss Govers. We are a very small class but we are extremely proud and we hate to see that blank expression on anyone's countenance when the Millinery Design course is mentioned.

One of the many things that makes our work so interesting is the Wednesday afternoon trips to the Fifth Avenue shops, to observe the new things shown.

We have also spent many profitable hours doing research work with Miss Morgan at the Museums.

Our course can boast of only two years' existence, but we're told that everything must have a beginning and as this seems quite logical we'll accept it in this case. However, its a good beginning and the class is certain to improve each year. It would not belong to Pratt Institute if it didn't.

POWER OF THOUGHT

Think of peace, and peace will reign, Think to be healthy, and not of pain; Think of joy, and less of sorrow, Then ours indeed will be a glad tomorrow. Never sit down, and weep, and grieve, Just always say, and make believe! Create a little sunshine, here, and there; Although the day be gloomy make it fair. Learn of other people's pain, and help them through, And though their sky be gray-make it blue! Think a little more of understanding, and of others; Treat all, everyone, as sisters—brothers, Think less of revenge, and hate; think love. Think of Him, who made this earth, from above! Oh think of all God to us did give; And rejoice, and be glad, that you live!

LIBRARY SCHOOL, 1927

The twenty-seven of '27 felt that they had chosen an auspicious year in which to make their entrance into library work, as the year of centenials, 1926, marked the fiftieth anniversary of the modern library movement. In connection with the half-century celebration of the American Library Association, our class enjoyed some unusual privileges, among which were the opportunities of having as visiting lecturers, Madame Haffkin-Hamburger, Director of the Institute for Library Science in Russia, and other notable representatives from Europe. A reception in honor of the foreign guests in attendance upon the Semi-Centenial of the American Library Association was given in the art gallery, at which a dozen European countries were represented by their official delegates. Nine of the class attended the meeting in Philadelphia commemorating the actual founding of the organization, and five went on to Atlantic City where they, together with nearly one hundred graduates, attended the Pratt luncheon.

Field trips are usually reserved for the third term, but one event of unusual interest in the Fall was the visit of the class to the National Arts Club to view the Vollbehr collection of Incunabula, on which occasion Dr. Vollbehr pointed out the elements of special interest. Serving as a very fine introduction to our chosen work, were the dedication excersises of the new School of Library Service of Columbia University, at which time we heard Mr. Dewey, a man whose work we later came to know intimately.

Two manifestations of the fine spirit of loyalty which pervades the Graduates' Association were the annual reception held in November and the luncheon at the Hotel McAlpin in January, at which Dr. Joseph Collins spoke on "The Doctor Looks at Librarians." These occasions, besides being very pleasant ones, served in stimulating our thoughts as to the responsibility upon us in keeping up the high standards already set.

The work accomplished, the friendships gained, the pleasures enjoyed during this year will all be blended in our memories of Pratt Institute.

THE PALETTEER'S CIRCUS

On March nineteenth we staged our own idea of a "Big Parade," and we must break down and confess that it was a panic! You can't keep a good idea down, as the saying goes, and when several enterprising members of what usually passes for the fair sex announced that a circus would be perpetrated without more ado, it was no vain boast.

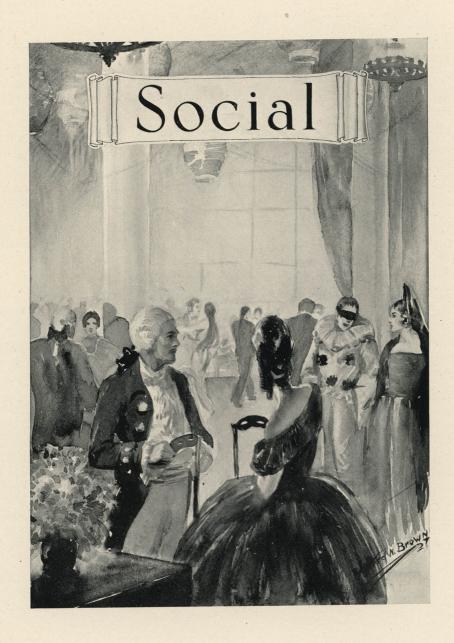

Added to the aforementioned good idea were more good ideas from a group of interested and enthusiastic workers, without which the big show would have fluttered nary a pulse! There was sawdust and a gaudily striped "Big Top" for atmosphere, and music for inspiration. Besides the regular Circus, with its Raucous Ring-Master, we offered several side-shows cunningly designed to keep the milling throngs out of mischief!

The animals proved a big attraction, and, though home-made, had some really charming characterisitcs. Personally, we thought the elephant quite classic, but we heard rumors in regard to the baby elephant's striking resemblance to a mosquito!

After the thrilling episode was over, those who so desired remained to dance, aided, we are sure, by the informal gaiety of what proved to be one of the most successful and talked-of entertainments that Pratt has on record.

ARTSMEN WITCHES' DANCE

What could be more bewitching, so near the time of the Hallowe'en Festivities? Ghostly witches weirdly riding their brooms with their ever watchful scrawny cats perched upon their shoulders, ghosts and skeletons dangling from nowhere haunted the room where deep shadows partly hid their existence.

This was the feeling one received when entering the Casino, on the evening of November 20th, but the atmosphere was suddenly changed when the melodious strains of music were heard from the snappy jazz orchestra, putting pep into you and immediately the dance fever covered your troubled thoughts like a veil, and an evening of dancing was thoroughly enjoyed.

The Artsmen dance proved a great social success, with due thanks to Mr. Valentine and his committee for arranging the splendid "spooky" decorations. We were very glad to see the General Art Class of 1926 represented by some of their outstanding figures such as Misses Viola Mabie and Dolly Burges, Messrs. Edmund Powles, Philip Hummerstone, Thorn and Lube were most prominent. The inevitable Mr. Dominick Mortellito rendered some guitar solos which were greatly appreciated by all those present.

As the hour neared midnight the witches that had been haunting this atmosphere decided to leave their victims at Pratt and cast their spell over some other prey. So to celebrate their going the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" accompanied the witches, their associates and the tired couples from Pratt.

"....And a good time was had by all."

"The Rest House." The very sound of the words brings praise to our lips. What would we ever do without our Rest House? We go in feeling so miserably—probably after using good homemade remedies "guaranteed never to fail," and alas, they failed. We stay in bed a few days and it seems as though a miracle has been performed. We leave feeling great and wonder why we haven't come sooner. Our visit has been so delightful that we seriously consider spending our week-ends there—the rainy ones, anyway.

There is just one personage at the Rest House whom we feel is treated as royally if not more so, than ourselves, this is "William Rest House," in other words, "Bill the kitten." Bob and Dixie, alias Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rest House and son, Tuesday, also reside at The Rest House.

Miss Hale and Mrs. Hatch look after us and grant our every desire.

We receive visitors each afternoon from four-thirty to five-thirty and then again in the evening from seven to eight o'clock. Of course we look forward to the "mail" and the "latest" from school.

THE WOMEN'S CLUB

Once upon a time there was a Women's Club. It was not like any other Club in the world. From the outside it looked just like other houses in the neighborhood. The only hints of the coziness inside were the little wicket gate and the tea garden next the library lawn. These had quite a hospitable aspect and enticed a great many people to explore further.

If they came in through the garden they first entered a spotless kitchen with the whitest wooden tables in Brooklyn. (Elizabeth has a method all her own for keeping them so, and other methods all her own for other parts of the house.)

Social life began for everybody with the Sunday Afternoon Teas, and continued with class parties, the "Get-Together Club," and most important and gayest of all the Birthday Party. (Yes, that's right—capital "B," capital "P." It was that kind of party.)

But sometimes real work went on in the Club. The laundry almost every day was the scene of great splashing and ironing and even the old sewing room upstairs wore usually a cheerful and busy air.

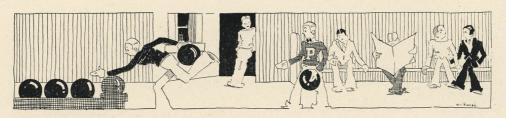

And do you think all these varied activities ran smoothly along without any guiding hand? Well, perhaps they might have, but nobody will ever know. You see there was a Fairy Godmother in the house, at least she must have been, because nobody but a Fairy Godmother could have been everywhere at once to tie up the loose ends of things, and to keep loose ends from having to be tied, with everybody smiling and happy all the time.

So here's to Mrs. Taylor and the Women's Club. May they "live long, and prosper."

PRATT MEN'S CLUB

Now, it was this way, Mr. Wright. "I had a date with the dentist and couldn't possibly go to gym class last Monday." Say, Rogers, know anybody I can get to work for me tomorrow? Have you any jobs for next Saturday? What about the thermal efficiency on the simple engine? That P. I. coffee was punk today, don't you think? No! the square on the hypot. is equal to the sum of the squares of the other two sides. I know, but when you multiply it on a slip stick it comes out this way. Is there a meeting of the student council today? Pep meeting today, fellows; all out at 12:30. Hello! hello! Yes, this is the Men's Club. Who?... Those curves should not cross. Rapity, tapidy, bang. (P. I. Lunch orchestra annoying the inhabitants of Ryerson Street and Emerson Place.)

This, ladies and gentlemen, is what Mr. Wright inherited when Mr. Snowden resigned at the close of last year, and it is better known as the Pratt Men's Club, next to the mechanics' laboratory. (Most of you know where it is.)

There is nothing particularly exciting about the appearance of the club, but once you have lived through a term of noon hours, and lingered there for a few minutes after school, your impressions of it are that it is a real good place to spend your spare moments. With bowling alleys, pool tables, reading room, and another fellow to whom you can tell your troubles. What more could a fellow ask?

The club is open to everything worthwhile concerning the school, and a number of societies have taken advanage of this fact by holding their meetings there.

Through the Employment Bureau of the club we have been able to assist many students in finding employment while attending school.

We wish to thank the members of the school, both faculty and students, who have in any way contributed to the success of the club, and to extend to you, on this our fortieth anniversary of the Institute, our best wishes for your continued success.

CHAMPION POOL TEAM

POOL

The Art team, repeating its triumph of the preceding year, retained the pool championship for another year. Although they were undefeated throughout the season some of the games were won by a very narrow margin.

BOWLING TEAM

Industrial Mechanical Engineers II Bowling Team won the championship after eliminating the Architects who were close contestants. Their constant practice and fine teamwork were the reason for their victory.

DUCK PIN

The Duck Pin Championship rests for the second consecutive year with the Architects. Building a new team with only two veterans as a base, the T-square pushers went through the schedule without defeat in the face of strong opposition from their rivals of the S. & T. School. The Architects are to be complimented on this, their fifth inter-class championship in two years.

THE ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The Athletic Council is made up of a representative from each of the masculine classes in the institute, and two faculty advisors. The group meets once a week and discusses various questions with regard to Pratt athletics. It has been the aim of the council this year to try and standardize the rules governing inter-class sports, and to help pave the way to an improved relationship between the students and general athletics at Pratt.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

COOPER UNION

The opening game, staged against Cooper Union, was interesting in that it showed our dependence on some of the first year men.

A closely contested first half ended in Pratt's favor, 12-11. Our five swung into action and earned a winning score during the second half which ended in a 28-15 victory.

NEWARK

Newark College of Engineering, a new opponent for Pratt, came to us with a team greatly outweighing "Mac's" team. The game, while somewhat rough, was evenly contested with evidence of development in our team play. At the final whistle Pratt lead 29-23.

ST. FRANCIS

The first game of the new year was played against St. Francis. The visitors proved to be quite fast, but were unable to overtake the Pratt five which took an early lead, maintaining it without danger throughout the game. The final score was 25-12.

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

The University of Delaware, our next opponents, took the floor with a well-balanced team of repute. From the first to last whistle the outcome was doubtful with the visitors displaying a fine passing game. With a lead of three points at the opening of the second half Pratt was overtaken, and during the rest of the period it was nip and tuck. A final spurt, however, gave us a 21-17 victory.

ST. JOHN'S

The next evening Pratt went to St. John's to play the team that handed us our first set back of last season and, as it turned out, of this season also. The first period closed with Pratt leading 13-11. The rest between the halves, however, seemed to rejuvenate the St. John's and the game turned into a rather one-sided affair, all of Pratt's attempts being of little avail. St. John's won handily, 30-20.

CRESCENT A. C.

For our next contest we were fortunate in having the Crescent A. C., a strong aggregation of well-known repute, who had little difficulty in subduing the Pratt team by a 31-15 score. Pratt led for a time during the first half, but the clever passing and shooting of the visitors soon closed the gap and they assumed the lead which they maintained to the end.

NEW YORK AGGIES

The New York Aggies, in our next game, took a drubbing of 32-14 due to two things. First, was the determination of the team to start a winning streak. Second, was the memory that practically this same combination had taken Pratt into camp the year previous. The game started at a fast pace with Pratt holding the lead 15-8 at half time. It was in the second half that the team showed an aggressive spurt backed up by a calibre of passing and shooting which proved too much for the Farmingdale team, resulting in the decisive victory for Pratt.

CANISIUS

Canisius, a team new to a Pratt schedule, was booked for the following week and as this team had played good teams during the week the attendance was gratifying. The game, the fastest and most closely contested of the season, started off with a wealth of speed and action. Pratt took an early lead, but when the period ended Canisius led 17-16. The visitors then started the second half with a spurt that seemed to spell victory. They acquired a twelve point lead, displaying in doing so a brand of basketball pleasing to observe. The home team, however, tightened their defense and at the same time staged a desperate scoring rally. With the score tied Pratt sank a foul shot in the last minutes and guarded this lead until the whistle blew. Score 33-32.

The Trinity College team of Hartford afforded the opposition at the next game. Pratt started well, but as the game progressed it became evident that it was an off night for the team. Poor passing and guarding resulted in a 17-19 defeat.

M. I. T.

The strong Massachusetts Institute of Technology team came to Ryerson Street Gym the next week with high hopes of avenging their defeat of last year. The game turned out to be one of the fastest and most closely contested affairs of the season, the final count of 27-24 but partly indicating the difficulty experienced by the Pratt team in winning. At half time M. I. T. led 17-13 but Pratt assumed command in the second half. The lead seesawed several times with the visitors piling up an eight point lead which, however, was overcome by a game rally. Pratt emerged the victor once more. Score 27-24.

We next ventured to Trinity to avenge the defeat encountered previously. After a hard fought period Trinity led 21-20. During the second half Pratt took the lead, but was compelled to repulse a dangerous Trinity outburst in the latter stage of the contest. The team had the necessary punch however, and gratified the great number of alumni prsent by winning 33-28.

WORCESTER TECH

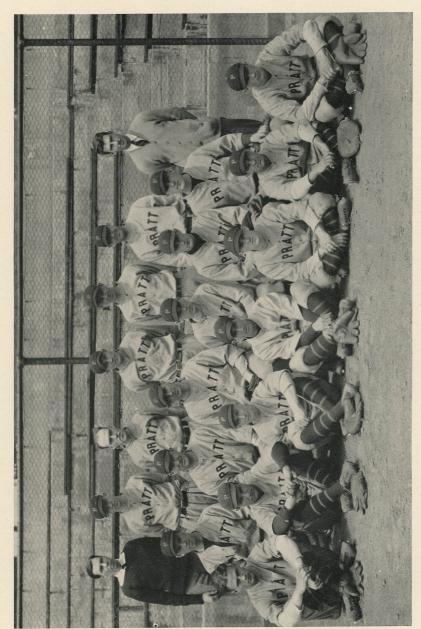

In the sceond game of our trip the team faced a hard proposition in Worcester Tech, who were out to even up the series with Pratt. They succeeded in this after a five minute overtime period. The game, the best played at Worcester this year, was a thriller from start to finish with both teams showing a fine brand of pass work. The score before the extra period was 29-29. In the extra stanza Tech got the jump on Pratt. Final score 36-29.

ALUMNI

Loyal upholders of Pratt's greatness in the basketball circles, both past and present, frolicked into the last game of the year. It was easily seen as the game progressed that the graduates were worthy products of the Alma Mater. The varsity consistent teamwork, however, enabled them to win a close victory.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The advent of the 1927 baseball season brought Pratt face to face with a schedule, harder and longer than ever before, for which Manager Bowen is to be commended. This schedule was made possible by our good fortune in having as a nucleus for the team six of last year's letter men. From the many new aspirants Captain Castrovinci and Coach McKillop chose a group calculated not only to fill the gaps for this year, but also upon which to build a team for 1928.

COOPER UNION

The opening game of the season with Cooper Union proved to be decidedly a one sided affair. In the first inning Pratt drove in seven runs, and at the end of the seventh inning the score read 20-3. While lacking the interest of a well matched game the contest served the purpose of disclosing the possibilities of the team.

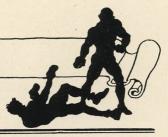

CRESCENT A. C.

Faring forth to Bay Ridge the next week, Pratt received a set back from the strong Crescent A. C. During the first two innings the "New Mooners" worked eight runs from our team after which the game was evenly matched with each nine gaining four runs. Final score 4-12 in their favor.

BOXING

F.A.G

THE BOXING TEAM

The boxing team at Pratt, after being absent in 1926, got away to a brand new start this year. A large and ambitious crowd of huskies turned out to learn the "manly art." Everyone worked hard, and although not much was heard from them this year, they earned their recognition and intend to go out and make a name for themselves in 1928.

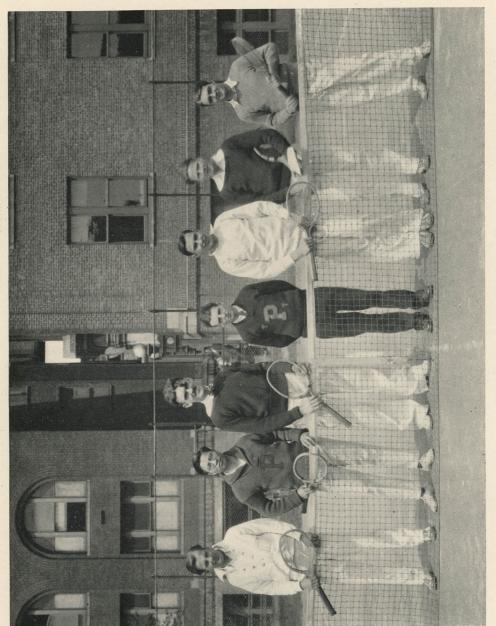

TRACK

This year, track was run under a very heavy handicap, but owing to the courtesy of the Bedford Y. M. C. A., we were able to enter events that otherwise would have had to have been omitted.

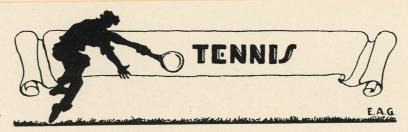

The Artsmen were the inter-class champions with Rosenblum and Cline as the outstanding stars, and is the fourth consecutive year that Art has won the championship.

The ten high individual scorers are Edwards, Rosenblum, Nichols, Cline, Depew, Hold, Burwell, Fostead, Entlick and Jacobson.

ARCHITECTS' SOCCER TEAM

CLASS SOCCER

From the outset of the 1926 soccer schedule there were several strong contenders. As the season progressed the Architects and Artsmen loomed as the possible winners. The former, runners up in 1925, completed their schedule with no defeats. They maintained their leadership throughout the season even to the last game in which they held the runners up, the Artsmen, to a scoreless tie.

GEORGE D. BARTLETT

Pratt Institute 1891-1927

Mr. Bartlett was born in 1855 of sturdy Maine stock, passing his boyhood days in the pleasant little village of Dixfield. He prepared for college at the old Kent's Hall Seminary and, without help, worked his way through Wesleyan University, from which he was graduated in 1882. He spent the succeeding nine years of his life as a teacher in Nyack, Amenia, Wiscasset and East Orange. In 1891 he came to Pratt Institute as instructor in Latin in the High School. When the High School was discontinued in 1905, the School of Fine and Applied Arts and the School of Science and Technology each bid for the services of the man who had done such successful work with his High School students. He became one of the instructors in the School of Fine and Applied Arts, teaching English and Mathematics to the Architectural students, and also acting as the ever efficient Chairman of the Institute Social Committee. The genial influence radiating from his life, his transparent sincerity, his genuine interest in people, his human sympathies and his gracious personality—these traits have won for him a multitude of friends. For many years, now, he has been "Uncle Geroge" to trustees, directors, instructors and students. He made friends everywhere. The policeman on his beat, the postman on his route, the conductor on the street car, the janitor at the Institute, all were made happier as they responded to his pleasant greetings.

Few, even of his friends, knew of the diversity of his gifts. Few knew that he was a keen musical critic and that he was a skillful musician, that he had an effective command of the French language, written and spoken, that he had produced oil paintings of real worth, that he had skill in the use of tools and was a craftsman.

George Bartlett was a rich man; for a man's true riches may be measured by the number of real friends he has won. He made Pratt Institute a happier place for us all. We shall miss his genial presence in our midst.

Charles M. Allen.

EDITH M. POMEROY

For thirty-four years a member of the Staff of the Pratt Institute Free Library, and for many years head of the Order Department and in charge of Schedules, died August 5, 1926, at the height of her usefulness and influence with the Library.

LILY I. BREWER

Pratt Institute 1893-1927

Instructor in sewing in School of Household Science and Arts.

"Ever loyal to her best self and because of that, loyal to Pratt Institute, her associates and her students. A sturdy Christian character, conscientiously devoted to her work, cheerful, sunny tempered, and ever helpful."

GRACE E. WALLACE

Pratt Institute 1915-1926

Miss Wallace died July 22, 1926, after nearly eleven years of faithful service in the office of the School of Science and Technology. She had made a remarkably large circle of friends among students, teachers and the general public through her unfailing tact and courtesy, and her efficient and sympathetic response to their wants. She was a valued friend and helper of all Prattonia Boards.

FRANK J. SPLETTSTOSHER

Died December, 1926

Known to all of us as Slim. His unusual goodnature gained for him an untold number of friends. Those who saw him leading the parade Alumni Day, 1926, will never forget him.
